Post-War Program

NAVY SUPPLY CORPS SCHOOL

SYMBOLIZING the beginning of the postwar phase of Supply Corps training, the Navy Supply Corps School at Bayonne, N. J. early last month began a four-and-a-half-months' course as the first of a series of indoctrination courses.

Using the new, revised Bureau of Supplies and Accounts Manual as a text, the school is employing the most up-to-date teaching techniques, including visual aids to education. In the future, probably in the fall of 1947, the course will last for approximately six months.

For the present, however, the large number of students eligible for the school makes it necessary to limit the course to shorter duration. This short course will provide basic training in general Supply Corps work, with half devoted to disbursing and the other half to supply. Included in the latter will be Supply Ashore, Accounting, Ship Afloat, Ship's Store, Clothing and Small Stores, and Commissary instruction.

In addition to the general service course, a special course in Ship's Service operations is currently being conducted at the School. Comdr. Carl P. Faires (SC) USN is Supply Officer-in-Command.

Besides the Training Department, there has also been established a Logistics Department responsible for research in the field of logistics and the development of reference and training material relative to that subject. The Logistics Department has organized and developed an extensive library which is serving as a reference center for the naval service.

A new course, "Operational Planning for Supply Officers," has been established and will convene this fall. In the first class a few officers experienced in logistics will meet as a seminar group to develop the instructional material which will be taught to later classes.

The organization of the Navy Supply Corps School will also encompass the recently established Test and Development Department. This Department will carry on a test and research program covering materials and functions under the cognizance of the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts.

The building which formerly housed the Naval Supply Operational Training Center at Bayonne was taken over by the school and converted to meet the new requirements. Classroom and administrative space has been provided, and living accommodations for 268 students have been built.

Under Comdr. Faires the following Supply Corps officers will comprise the staff: Comdrs. B. Johnson, M. R. Mowry, and H. Streich;

Lt. Comdrs. W. W. Alexander, Jr., N. H. Anderson, D. M. Botkin, J. G. Bowle, L. L. Buchart, C. O. Galvin, R. M. Hoag, R. Ironmonger, W. G. Knopf, D. F. Logan, E. N. Thode, and H. S. Tolbert;

Lieuts. R. J. Bacon, F. J. Dersch, D. Dickinson, J. H. Faulkner, E. R. Flowers, R. H. Hayden, Jr., R. M. Lynch, S. R. Maslowski, W. J. Strader and J. C. Van Zant;

Greetings to the Army and Navy Journal on its 83d Birthday

General John J. Pershing, General of the Armies of the United States. "My hearty congratulations to the Army and Navy Journal on its 83d Anniversary. Throughout the years the Journal has been the staunch supporter and faithful recorder of the Armed Forces of the United States. It is truly an honored and respected institution. May its influence and good work continue to serve our Country for many years to come."

The Honorable Robert P. Patterson, Secretary of War. "For 83 years the Army and Navy Journal has been a loyal friend of the Army. Its editors and editorial policies have supported us in war and in peace, when the soldier was looked upon as the savior of his country and when he was virtually forgotten by his fellow countrymen. The Army appreciates that friendship.

"On this anniversary I extend to you and your publication the greetings and best wishes of the War Department. We look forward to many more years of continued friendship and support from the Army and Navy Journal."

The Honorable James Forrestal, Secretary of the Navy. "On behalf of the United States Navy I am pleased to offer congratulations to the Army and Navy Journal on its 83d anniversary. Its comprehensive and graphic news coverage has rendered a valuable service to members of the Armed Forces and therefore to the nation. To the editors and staff I extend best wishes for many more years of successful publication."

General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower, USA, Chief of Staff of the Army. "It is a pleasure to send hearty greetings to the Army and Navy Journal on its eighty-third anniversary of publication, and to extend to you and your staff my congratulations. I wish you many more years of service of the same high standard you have maintained in the past."

Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, USN, Chief of Naval Operations. "On the occasion of the 83rd anniversary of the Army and Navy Journal, I extend my sincere greetings. Your Journal has made a valuable contribution in its effort to keep the members of the Armed Services well informed. I wish to express my appreciation on behalf of all Naval personnel for 83 years of outstanding service."

General Carl Spaatz, USA, Commanding General, Army Air Forces. "I am reminded that the next issue of the Army and Navy Journal will be the 83rd birthday issue. I should like, in behalf of myself and all who serve in the Army Air Forces, to express my heartiest congratulations on this occasion.

"At no time in the long history of your distinguished publication has there been greater need for the inculcation of sound military ideas which has from the first been a prime purpose of the Army and Navy Journal. It is a matter of considerable gratification to those of us who know the Journal to know that its coverage of the news does promote clear understanding of the problems of our defense and of the means whereby it will be maintained.

"I wish you continued success in maintaining your Journal as an essential organ of the military establishment."

General A. A. Vandegrift, USMC, Commandant, United States Marine Corps. "It is my pleasure on behalf of the officers and men of the United States Marine Corps, to salute the Army and Navy Journal on the occasion of its 83rd birthday.

"The continuing close attention given by the Journal to the problems of national defense has been a salutary influence throughout this 83-year period."

Admiral J. F. Farley, USCG, Commandant, United States Coast Guard. "On the occasion of the 83rd birthday of the Army and Navy Journal the United States Coast Guard takes pleasure in congratulating you on publishing a magazine of continuing interest to military men.

"With our good wishes goes the hope that your policy of reporting news of all the services will assure your success for many years to come."

Economy Cuts in Army Funds to Hit Training

Reductions in Army expenditures to meet the administration's economy program will seriously affect the training maneuvers of the Army Ground Forces.

General Jacob L. Devers, commanding Army Ground Forces, described in an interview the effect of possible reductions in maneuvers and training.

"If we must cut, I am for making one big cut, rather than a lot of little cuts," General Devers said. "If I have to chop off a cat's tail, I am going to chop it off right up to the cat, and not in ten little pieces. You are going to have a mad cat, anyway, and you might as well get it over with."

New RA Officers

THE War Department announced this week the approval of a list of approximately 900 officers accepted for permanent commissions in the Regular Army. These are to fill vacancies created by the failure of some of the original 9,800 appointees to accept commissions as well as vacancies brought about by normal attrition. It brings the strength of the Regular Army up to 25,000 commissioned officers but does not fill any of the vacancies created by the new law authorizing an increase to 50,000 officers.

College Study Planned For New USN Officers

Officers newly-commissioned in the line of the Regular Navy and Marine Corps under the current transfer program without fulfilling normal educational requirements of a college education will be assigned to Naval ROTC Colleges for a minimum of five semesters of college study.

Approximately 700 Navy transferees will initiate this program with the opening of Fall sessions in September. Each will be issued permanent change-of-duty orders to one of the 52 colleges where NROTC units are established, and will continue to serve on active duty as officers with full pay and allowances.

The program is designed to bring the educational level of all Regular Navy and Marine Corps officers to a minimum of two and a half years. A study of the curriculum at the U. S. Naval Academy recently determined that this much of the four-year course is academic while the remaining year and a half is professional. Officers accepted for transfer are considered to have better than average professional qualifications for Regular commissions.

The Marine Corps will be unable to start this program this Fall, and has not yet determined a starting date. Headquarters announced, however, that when its program gets underway, it will follow the educational system already established by the Navy.

The Navy expects it will take five years to complete the education of its transferees, and, within limitations of the needs of the service for special operations such as the Bikini tests, will first assign those who have had the least amount of schooling. Applications will not be acknowledged.

Among the 8,000 to 10,000 line officers transferred to the Navy, the greater proportion of officers who will first be sent to college are temporary officers, whose permanent status is enlisted, and naval aviators who are graduates of the V-5 program. The temporary officers, for the most part, have had no college, and in their pre-flight training V-5 graduates completed only two years of college.

In a pamphlet outlining plans for the peacetime education of Naval officers, the Navy states:

"Some of the officers in this category have already applied for retention in the regular Navy. When assurances of equal opportunity for educational and professional advancement are given, others will also apply. Many of these officers have records of excellent performance, despite their limited education. The Navy would suffer were it to lose officers of such proved ability."

The amount of college allowed each officer will be on a sliding scale, depending upon the amount of his previous college training. While the semesters allowed, from two to five, would not enable the officer to obtain an academic degree, he will be assured of the following basic essentials:

(a) Completion of courses in mathematics through Solid Geometry and Trigonometry.

(b) Proficiency in the written and oral use of English.

Voluntary Enlistments

Boston Post—"The raising of an army of 900,000 men by voluntary enlistment since V-J Day is a notable accomplishment and is especially pleasing, as this announcement by the army blunts the possibility that the draft will still have to loom large in young American lives. But, with most ex-service men pretty well fed up with military existence, Congress had to bid higher than ever before to get men to enlist. All extras considered, the United States Forces are now by far the world's best paid."

Miami Herald—"During this summer's 'draft holiday' the War Department is making every effort to put the Army on a volunteer basis. Since last fall 900,000 men have enlisted voluntarily and prospects are that the 1,000,000 figure will soon be passed. The Army has much to offer—not only in increased scales of pay but also in educational opportunities. In fact, few except veterans can gain admission to colleges under present crowded conditions, and many high school graduates are finding it advantageous to enlist while awaiting an opportunity to continue their education."

Philadelphia Bulletin—"Although announcement has been made that the draft will be resumed next month, the Army is permitting no let-up in its recruiting campaign and hopes to achieve a volunteer status by the end of the fiscal year next June. The feeling of recruiting officers is that volunteers will probably be better capable of assimilating the highly technical training of the modern army than draftees. The pay scale makes it possible for the service to compete for manpower with much private business."

Norfolk Ledger Dispatch—"The induction machinery of Selective Service, idle since July 1, will begin turning again September 1 when the first of 25,000 men to be drafted that month will be taken into the Army. Volunteering for the Army has exceeded estimates, but Army authorities estimate that 185,000 men will have to be taken through the draft in the next seven months to meet military needs. No reasons have developed since the Congressional turmoil over extension of the draft to indicate that the necessity for maintaining this military strength is growing less urgent."

St. Louis Star-Times—"Over the signature of Maj. Gen. H. N. Gilbert, assistant to the Adjutant General for Military Personnel Procurement, comes the statement: 'It is the War Department's desire to build an all-volunteer army.' This is a worthy goal, the only one, in fact, that a democracy pledged to the preservation of individual liberties can tolerate. 'All of us,' said General Gilbert, 'will deeply appreciate anything you can do to help us to build a 100 per cent volunteer Army.' All the rest of us, General, will appreciate anything the Army can do to achieve that same end."

Miami Herald—"The 'draft holiday' for July and August revives the question: Can America build an all-volunteer Army? The results of our recruiting program over the next several months will tell the story," writes Maj. Gen. Gilbert of the Adjutant General's office. "I am convinced that, with public support, the new higher pay scale and other benefits will enable us to build and maintain an Army by the volunteer system."

Command and Staff College

The first regular course of the reorganized Command and Staff College, Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, commencing 4 September 1946, and ending 3 July 1947, will be attended by 249 Army officers, of whom 175 will be officers commissioned in the ground arms.

Reports on USMA

A report on conditions at the U. S. Military Academy has been submitted by Maj. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, superintendent, with recommendations for "a long-range policy directed toward meeting the increased requirements for Academy graduates to meet the expected attrition rate of an army of 50,000 officers."

Two steps in this direction would be a revision of methods of selection of candidates for the Academy so that the present attrition of 25 percent for each class may be lowered, and the development of a new Academy area, General Taylor wrote. His report went to the Director of Organization and Training, WDGS.

Additions to the Cadet Mess, Gymnasium and Thayer Hotel are now being made with funds from the 1946 appropriations act, but other projects which are estimated to require a total cost of $50,000,000 and over five years to complete are also needed.

Such items include 24 divisions of barracks, quarters for the Superintendent, Commandant and Dean of the Academic Board, a new academic building made by a conversion of the Riding Hall, a Memorial Hall near the spot where the Old Hotel stood on Trophy Point, and an Auditorium probably located near the Ordnance Compound below Trophy Point. Of this program, General Taylor stated:

"The present plant at West Point is designed to accommodate a Corps of 1950 cadets, whereas our present authorized strength is 2400. There has been no major construction at West Point since 1938. Consequently, in the war period we have fallen well behind the essential requirements of the Corps of Cadets."

To improve the quality of Cadets, so that time, money and effort will not be wasted upon inferior Cadets, the Superintendent endorses a proposal of the Board of Consultants for an improved method of selecting Cadets. He reported:

"Under this system, Congressman would nominate four candidates without indicating which was to be considered principal and which the alternates. The Academic Board would then scrutinize the records of the four men, considering not only their academic standing but also their extra-curricular activities. It would then designate the most promising of the four for admission."

General Taylor said he had written informally to Senator Elbert Thomas (D-Utah) and Rep. Andrew May (D-Ky) in their capacity as senior members of the Board of Visitors, asking for their comments on this proposal, but that neither had answered.

Relations with the U. S. Naval Academy are on a "most cordial basis." The exchange visits of Cadets and Midshipmen during April and May and the amphibious maneuvers now underway at Little Creek, Va. have done much to achieve such relations. In addition, Gen. Taylor reported that "a start has been made in the exchange of instructors":

"One Army officer taught history at Annapolis during the past year while a Naval officer joined the faculty of our Department of Economics, Government and History. During the coming academic year a similar exchange will be effected in the Mathematics Departments of both Academies."

In closing his survey, Gen. Taylor listed what he considers the "areas in which I feel the Academy is in the greatest need of support from the War Department":

a. West Point needs the continuous support of the War Department in meeting the personnel requirements necessary to run the Academy at a maximum level of efficiency. We recently were visited by the War Department Manpower Commission which has recommended the reduction of about 1,000 persons from the Academy. The loss of this number would be a serious blow to our operating efficiency. It should be recognized by the War Department that West Point expands in peace and contracts in war, the inverse of the movement within other War Department agencies.

b. There is annually a great loss in time and money in training of poor quality cadets. The greatest possibility for improving the efficiency of the Academy is in the field of better selection of entering candidates. I feel that the War Department should press the suggestion that Congressmen designate candidates without indication of principal and alternates.

c. The building program of the Academy needs constant support as the cadets are living under cramped conditions which should be relieved as soon as possible.

d. It should be accepted that the Corps of Cadets can expand no further in its present area about the Plain. If West Point is to be enlarged, a new Academy area will have to be developed. It is believed that the War Department should give serious consideration to the determination of a long range policy directed toward meeting the increased requirements for Academy graduates to meet the expected attrition rate of an Army of 50,000 officers.

e. From time to time, a movement to make the Academy post-graduate has been reported in Congress and in other official quarters. Such an action would be fatal to the Military Academy and would remove the influence in the Army which it has exercised in the past. The character training at West Point is its crowning glory and can be effective only if the cadets enter young, in the malleable period of their lives.

Top ranking officers of southern California's 62nd Wing, California Air National Guard, have been named by Col. Leonard E. Thomas, assistant adjutant general and Wing commander, following official activation of the Wing in Los Angeles. All served with distinction during the war.

Col. F. S. Gabreski of Santa Monica, will be deputy commander of the 146th Fighter Group. He is now employed in the foreign sales department of Douglas Aircraft. Lt. Col. Orville E. Mohler of South Pasadena will command the 115th Light Bombardment squadron, the direct descendant of the California National Guard's pre-war 115th Observation squadron.

Col. Clarence A. Shoop, Beverly Hills, will command the new 146th Fighter group. Commanding the 195th Fighter squadron will be Lt. Col. Robert S. Dodson, Sherman Oaks.

Lt. Col. Cecil West, Burbank, will head the 246th Air Service group. Detachment "D," 211th Air Service group, will be commanded by Major W. T. Henry, Los Angeles.

Staff of the 62nd Wing will consist of Lt. Col. Edwin F. Howe, Glendale, personnel officer; Lt. Col. Clinton A. Burrows, Los Angeles, intelligence; Lt. Col. Richard E. Evans, Los Angeles, plans and operations, and Lt. Col. Harry C. Gilmore, Van Nuys, supply.

Meeting of Military Surgeons

The convention of the Association of Military Surgeons of the United States will open 9 Oct. in the ball room of the Book Cadillac Hotel in Detroit for a two-day session at which Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker, Commanding General of the Sixth Army, will serve as honorary chairman.

Reservations already received indicate that attendance will be unusually heavy, according to Dr. Carleton Fox, general convention chairman, who urges members planning to take part to send in reservations immediately so as to be sure of obtaining proper hotel accommodations.

Highlighting the initial session will be the presidential address delivered by Col. Ervin Abel, president of the Association; and addresses by Maj. Gen. Norman T. Kirk, Army Surgeon General; Vice Admiral Ross T. McIntire, Navy Surgeon General; Maj. Gen. Paul R. Hawley of the Veterans Administration; and Dr. Thomas Parran of the U. S. Public Health Service.

Atomic Energy

In opening the series of War Department lectures on the subject of Atomic Energy, Secretary of War Patterson, on 27 Aug., at the Pentagon, went into the history of the discovery of the fissionability of uranium and gave emphatic credit to the Army, through the Corps of Engineers, for the application of the discovery to a weapon of war, after pioneer work had been done by committees of scientists and industrial engineers.

The Secretary then depicted the steps that had been taken to outline a national policy for long-range development of atomic energy, a policy formulated by a group of eminent scientists and citizens and modified until it took the form of the recently enacted law that calls for a commission of five civilians to be appointed by the President, with a division of military application headed by a member of the armed forces, and also with a military liaison committee to be appointed by the Secretaries of War and Navy. The commission has yet to be announced by the President.

Stating that the War Department will confine its attention to the military utilization of atomic energy, Secretary Patterson said:

"It has been predicted, and by people whose views cannot be lightly dismissed, that the armed forces will not be equal to this responsibility, that the military people will not adjust their thinking and planning to the atomic bomb, that they will adhere simply to the old military concepts.

"The Army, I am confident, will defeat that prediction. It will do so, despite the temptation to plan a future war in terms of the last war. The tactical employment of new weapons, and of this weapon in particular, will not be allowed to lag behind availability. The effect in planning should be felt in two ways—what we can do, and what we need no longer do. It should be made in plans for offensive operations and in plans for defensive measures. The constant intercourse between the scientists and the soldiers, so thoroughly carried on in the last war, will be maintained.

"Already a weapon has been developed that is destructive beyond anything imaginable when the last war began. As if this were not enough, it is reasonably clear that there will be improvements in the atomic bomb we know about. Military planning on all levels must be kept abreast of this new fact in the world we live in and in the world that lies ahead.

"I am mindful of the strong effort being made to bring about international control of atomic energy, to the end that it shall not be used as a weapon. The United States has a sound plan for this purpose. The plan has not yet been accepted. I hope that it will be. It goes without saying however that those responsible for the defense of the nation must make their plans on the basis that there is and will be no adequate control on the international level,—this until the time when we may be directed by the Congress to plan on another basis.

"The need today, above all else, is to foster the team-work of scientists, both academic and industrial, and the military, the scientists to be kept aware of military requirements and the military to be kept aware of scientific discoveries. In this interchange, and in the flexible planning that should accompany it, will be found the best assurance of national security that can be devised."

Second Atom Bomb Test

In a recapitulation of target vessels sunk in the second atomic bomb test, Vice Adm. W. H. P. Blandy, USN, Commander of Joint Task Force One, reported a total of nine craft are resting on the silt and coral bottom of Bikini waters. Five of the ships went down as a result of the subsurface explosion while the others were so badly crippled that they were sent to the bottom by demolition and gunfire charges.

An official Navy Department announcement states:

The famous old battleship Arkansas sank in the explosion and the aircraft carrier Saratoga sank within eight hours from what apparently was progressive flooding. Four days later the former Japanese battleship Nagato sank during the night. The LSM 60 (landing ship, medium), from which the bomb was suspended, disappeared in the bomb's blast. The YO 100, concrete oil barge, sank immediately.

A small concrete drydock and three landing craft were so badly crippled that they were later sunk by demolition at the hands of Operation Crossroads' salvage crews. The LCT 1114 (landing craft, tank), and the ARDC 13 (small concrete drydock), were sent to the bottom by demolition charges and the LCT 620 (landing craft, infantry) and the LST 125 (landing ship, tank) were sunk by gunfire.

"The Arkansas is upside down on the bottom of Bikini lagoon, the starboard deck edge in mud and port deck edge about ten feet off the bottom," Vice Adm. Blandy reported. The ship is all in one piece, underwater inspections have revealed. The hull is badly damaged with many open seams throughout the length of the ship, divers report despite poor visibility for inspection purposes.

Divers are continuing salvage operations on three submarines reported on the bottom of the lagoon, Vice Adm. Blandy stated. For a time, radioactivity handicapped divers in their effort to inspect and engage in salvage operations on the submarines Apogon, Skipjack and Pilotfish. All are said to be resting at a considerable list in silt, making diving operations difficult.

The Director of Ship Material for Joint Task Force One, Rear Adm. T. A. Solberg, USN, is at Bikini in charge of the crews inspecting and salvaging the target ships.

Several compartments in both the submarines Apogon and Skipjack are flooded. The Pilotfish shows hull endentures, the divers revealed. Every effort is being made to complete the recovery of scientific instruments from these craft without casualty to personnel or the instrumentation equipment.

After a thorough scrutiny of still and motion pictures of the Test Baker explosion, Vice Adm. Blandy explained that it was definitely not the Arkansas that was heaved askew in the geyser of water and gas as first believed from a pictorial view. The ship-like silhouette gave the impression that the "Ark" was hoisted skyward like a toy craft and disappeared in the rising water spout.

It is believed the darkened area in the water spout was actually caused by a cloud of soot and debris from the stacks and boiler tubes of the ship, Vice Adm. Blandy explained. This was evident through detailed study of the picture material.

Tells of Work of AGD

The tremendous administrative problems caused by the high, almost reckless, speed of demobilization were graphically described Wednesday night in a speech delivered for Maj. Gen. Edward F. Witsell, the Army's Adjutant General, by Lt. Col. Ralph D. Foster, at the opening of the 58th annual convention of the Army and Navy Union at Milwaukee.

Men were processed through separation centers at the rate of nearly one million each month, General Witsell said, which meant that approximately 35,000 records a day—75 each minute—were received for checking, filing and safekeeping in the custody of The Adjutant General.

"On the proper safekeeping of these records depends most of the future rights and benefits of veterans," General Witsell declared. "The loss of a single record may never matter to the veteran who has no need of it, but to the veteran who does, its loss is catastrophic."

The overwhelming avalanche of records resulting from World War II is now under control, General Witsell said, and a soldier may now have recourse to the information contained in all his accumulated records upon request.

Amphibian Engineer Association

Preliminary organization of a West Coast chapter of the Amphibian Engineer Association, recently launched in Washington, D. C., on a national basis was underway following a meeting of 45 wartime "Amphibs" at Fort Ord, Calif., last week. Addressing the organization meeting was Brig. Gen. David Ogden, commanding general of the Second Engineer Special Brigade.

Named as an organization committee for the West Coast Amphibs were F. F. Newburg, Bakersfield, chairman; Melton Ferris, Sacramento; John R. Walker, Glendale; Arthur Bellick, Carmel; Jack Radkey, Los Angeles; and Newell Johnson, San Jose; Lt. Col. Michael J. Reichen, 1st Lt. J. E. Boyle, M. Sgt. Milton Jameson, and 1st Sgt. Leonard I. Weltzel all of Fort Ord.

All former members of the six Engineer Special Brigades living on the Pacific Coast are asked to forward their mailing addresses to Lt. Boyle, headquarters, Second Engineer Special Brigade, Fort Ord, Calif., so that they may be notified of the next Association meeting.

AGF EM to West Point

One hundred and forty-two enlisted men of Army Ground Forces in the United States, and from the technical and administrative services, will compete with approximately 200 other soldiers of ground forces overseas and other troops for 122 appointments to the U. S. Military Academy at West Point next July, it was announced this week by General Jacob L. Devers, AGF commander.

Applications are now being received by the commanding generals of the six Armies in the United States, and of the Military District of Washington. The 142 new applicants who meet the physical requirements will be selected 1 Sept. for a United States Military Academy Preparatory Training Program, and will take competitive entrance examinations on 4 March.

U. S. Families to China

Plans are being completed for the arrival of wives and children of American officers and War Department civilians stationed in China. A contingent of 71 families is scheduled to leave Seattle 3 September aboard the SS Fred C. Alnsworth, and is to arrive off Tangku about 18 September.

Safe conduct for the special train which will move the 170 persons to Peking has been requested of both Nationalists and Communists, and, in addition, the First Marine Division, based at Tientsin, will provide special guards along the 80-mile route.

Families in Europe

According to official figures released here, the War Department now has on file requests from U. S. personnel in this Theater for eventual shipment of 15,133 dependents, including those who will arrive in August and for the months thereafter, extending into early 1947.

The USFET announcement stated that 5,054 dependents had already arrived in the ET, as of 16 Aug.—out of the grand total of 20,187 persons requested since dependent shipments were inaugurated.

Officers now have 4,509 dependents here, enlisted personnel have 339, and there are 206 civilian dependents.

Shipment applications for automobiles have been received from 3,202 officers, 324 enlisted personnel and 219 civilians.

Convert Army Barracks

The War Department, through the Corps of Engineers, is carrying on a program of converting existing barracks and other buildings into family units to alleviate acute housing shortages in congested communities and at the same time provide family living quarters for men in the service.

Contracts already have been let for converting Army buildings into 5,746 family units located in 62 military installations throughout the country. A comparable number of units will be provided through building conversion contracts in the program for the fiscal year of 1947.

Cut AGF Training (Continued from First Page)

The Ground Forces, General Devers stated, was setting up alternative budget cuts of 10, 20 and 30%.

"If we make a 10% cut, we will have to cut short the current amphibious training of the 2nd Infantry Division, now being held in cooperation with the Army Air Forces and the Navy on the Pacific Coast. A previous cut in our budget made it necessary for us to limit this training to two regimental combat commands, rather than the entire division, and we are able to include two regimental teams because of the cooperation of the Navy."

"If we make a 20% cut," General Devers continued, "we will have to also abandon mountain warfare training of the third regimental combat command of the 2nd Division, at Camp Carson, Colorado. And if we make a 30% cut, it will be necessary to suspend maneuvers of the 82nd Airborne Division, and to cancel as well the winter test program of one of our two Winter Task Forces, "Williwaw" on Adak in the Aleutians and "Frigid" at and near Fairbanks in Alaska."

In the event of a 30% reduction, the General stated, the one task force, either Williwaw or Frigid, would be the only training in either amphibious, mountain, airborne or winter warfare to be conducted by Army Ground Forces during the remainder of 1946 and the first half of 1947.

Army Ground Forces originally requested an appropriation of $16,000,000 for field exercises in 1946-1947. This was cut to approximately $10,000,000 by the Bureau of the Budget, and Congress subsequently appropriated $6,151,822 for this purpose.

It is from the latter figure that the principal Ground Forces economies would have to be subtracted. General Devers stated, since stringent economy is already in effect elsewhere. Army Ground Forces schools are operating at one-half of capacity, with correspondingly reduced staffs.

W. D. Civilian Cuts

According to Maj. Gen. C. H. Bonesteel, President of the War Department Manpower Board, the W. D. headquarters and field agencies have been ordered to make "sharp cuts" in civilian employees by 1 Oct. Due to a directive of the Bureau of the Budget calling for a reduction of the civilian force to 519,500, there will be a forced separation of 53,000 in the War Department.

Cuts in this Department, as in all other Departments of the Government, are for economy purposes called for by existing law which provided for an increase in the pay of civil service employees but directed that these pay raises should be offset by a reduction in the payrolls of the various departments. According to General Bonesteel, the reduction in the War Department will be on an "equitable overall plan" and where "the national interest will not be endangered."

Defective Mortar Shells

The Senate War Investigating Committee made public this week an Army report that 38 American soldiers were killed and 127 injured by 63 premature explosions of defective 4.2-inch mortar shells during World War II.

While no evidence has been made public showing that any of these defective shells were made by firms of the Garson combine, now under investigation by the Senate committee, the report was made in connection with this investigation.

U. S. NAVY & MARINE CORPS

New Naval Postgraduate Site

Laying a foundation for a decision as to the most desirable location for the projected Naval Postgraduate School on the West Coast, which will supplant the PG school at Annapolis, as an element in the expansion of the Naval Academy, a subcommittee of the Senate Naval Committee will leave for the West on 1 Sept. to visit coastal cities best fitted especially for naval air training. Composing the committee are Senators John L. McClellan (Ark.), chairman; Warren G. Magnuson, (Wash.); Francis J. Myers, (Pa.); Edward V. Robertson, (Wyo.), and Wayne Morse, (Ore.).

Action on the recommendation of this committee will be taken by the full committee at the opening of Congress in January and will doubtless coincide with the reintroduction of legislation providing for the establishment of air-training facilities and for other items in the physical expansion of the Naval Academy.

Small Arms Pay

Enlisted men in the Navy are now eligible to receive extra pay for proficiency in the use of small arms. For purposes of qualifications, small arms include service pistols, service rifles, carbines and .38 calibre revolvers.

Personnel shall be qualified as expert riflemen, rifle sharpshooters or expert pistol shots in accordance with the qualifications contained in the current Landing Force Manual (Small Arms Marksmanship) and instructions of the Chief of Naval Operations.

The remuneration will be a sum of five dollars for expert riflemen and three dollars for rifle sharpshooters and expert pistol shots.

Those eligible shall hold their qualification with the small arm for one year from the date of the firing on which they qualified, unless within such period they again fire for qualification with that arm. In the latter case they shall be qualified on the basis of the more recent score, and shall hold such qualification for one year.

All enlisted men, with the exception of Hospital Corpsmen, are considered as being so stationed that they may be required to use small arms. Hospital Corpsmen are prohibited from performing military duties other than those pertaining to the Medical Department, and are therefore not eligible for duties in which extra compensation is paid for the use of arms. Exceptions are those who are attached to a landing force and are allowed to carry small arms for purposes of self-defense. Such corpsmen are eligible for extra compensation if properly qualified.

When an enlisted man qualifies in the use of more than one arm, he is considered as being entitled to extra compensation for both but his total compensation must not exceed five dollars. Any man reenlisting in the Navy is entitled to extra compensation for small arms qualifications under the qualification he was holding at the date of his discharge.

Commanding officers have been directed to make an effort to permit enlisted personnel to qualify for small arms compensation money once each year. Courses, rules and other instructions regarding firing can be found in Landing Force Manual, U. S. Navy, 1938. Marines will be governed by current Marine Corps instructions.

USNA Football
Annapolis, Md.—The Navy Football team took to the air this week to start its 1946 season, winging its way toward Martha's Vineyard to begin preparation for their toughest schedule in history.

A squad of forty-four players and two managers along with members of the coaching staff took off in three planes 24 Aug. from Anacostia Naval Air Station with two weeks of intensive training scheduled for their stay at the island off the coast of Massachusetts. Another group of forty-four players left the next day.

This will be the first time in the history of the Navy football club that it will be practicing away from home, and their studies will be pursued as usual with instructors on hand to conduct classes.

Coach Tom Hamilton had no comment to make as to the team's prospects as the team prepared for its practice, except to point out that the losses from last year were so numerous that it would take a couple of weeks to determine just who would comprise the bulk of the squad that would see the most action this fall. At present, only three starters from last year's Army game are on hand in the persons of Joe Bartos, back, Dick Scott, center and Jim Carrington, guard. Lee Bramlett, captain of the year's team, is still not ready to go, being hampered by injuries.

Among the few veterans who are returning upon whom Coach Hamilton will have to bank heavily are "Pistol Pete" Williams, quarterback, Newbold Smith, tackle, Art Markel, end, and Bill Bartlett, halfback, and Myron Gerber at fullback. The squad will return to the Naval Academy on September 8th and will continue fall practice at the Naval Academy until their opening game with Villanova on 28 Sept.

Twin-Engine Helicopter

The world's first twin-engine helicopter, known as the Navy's XHJD-1, has been built by the McDonnell Aircraft Corporation, in collaboration with the Bureau of Aeronautics. Experimental flight tests have been conducted at Lambert-St. Louis Municipal Airport for the past few months.

The new XHJD-1, in common with other helicopters, takes off and lands vertically, hovers motionless, flies forward, sideways and backward.

Two 450 horsepower Pratt and Whitney Wasp jr., engines power the craft's two lifting rotors which are arranged side by side. The big 40 foot blade rotors turn in opposite directions, making a tail or torque rotor unnecessary. The span from rotor tip to rotor tip is 81 feet. Late this month, test flights will be made with 40 foot diameter rotors with an overall span increased to 87 feet.

The use of twin-engines is intended to give the XHJD-1 greater reliability for safety over rough terrain, populated areas, or water. The helicopter will cruise at more than 100 miles per hour with a useful load of over 3,000 pounds. The Pratt and Whitney engines are mounted midway on the pylons extending from the fuselage out to the rotor hubs. The XHJD-1 will fly on either of the two engines. Either engine is able to drive both rotors through a system of over-running clutches.

Without power, the rotors will autorotate and the craft can glide to earth in somewhat the same manner as a fixed wing aircraft.

Supply Corps School

L. Johnson, and R. H. Madden; and Ensign L. E. Monissey.

The move to Bayonne is the third move in Supply Corps School history. The school originally opened in 1934 at the Navy Yard, Philadelphia, under the name of the Naval Finance and Supply School. In 1941 this school was moved to Boston where it occupied the facilities of the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration. There it was consolidated with the newly organized Naval Reserve Supply Corps School from Washington, D. C., and took the name of the Navy Supply Corps School. During its five-year stay in Boston the school trained more than 14,000 officers for general and special billets afloat and ashore in World War II.

As established in its new quarters, the Navy Supply Corps School constitutes a center for training in and development of functions handled by officers of the Supply Corps and of materials under the cognizance of the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts. Its location at the Naval Supply Depot, Bayonne, should serve to permit practical demonstrations to student officers of supply organizations and techniques.

Quarterly Marks in Navy Again

Marks for performance of duty will be assigned and entered in Service Records of enlisted personnel of the Navy for the quarter ending 30 September, and thereafter will be assigned and entered quarterly instead of semi-annually, as was done during the war.

As before, quarterly marks in conduct and proficiency will be averaged at the end of enlistments, reenlistments, or extensions to determine the nature of discharge to be granted. The Bureau of Naval Personnel Manual prescribes the following standards:

- (a) To be recommended for honorable discharge:
  - (1) Proficiency in rating ..... 3.0
  - (2) Conduct ..... 3.5
- (b) To be recommended for reenlistment:
  - (1) Proficiency in rating ..... 2.5
  - (2) Conduct ..... 2.5
- (c) To be recommended for a good-conduct medal:
  - (1) Proficiency in rating ..... 3.5
  - (2) No offenses or qualifying remarks entered in record.

"Established in obedience to an insistent demand for an official organ for members of the American Defense and those concerned with it, The Army and Navy Journal will be published in the interest of no party; it will be controlled by no clique. Its independence will be absolute. Its interest will be directed solely to the inculcation of sound military ideas and to the elevation of the public service in all its departments."—From Vol. 1, No. 1, of the Army and Navy Journal, published August 29, 1863.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 31, 1946

"The sea is the highway over which our commerce flows in two directions, and will flow as far into the future as we can see."—FLEET ADMIRAL CHESTER W. NIMITZ.

OUR PRIORITY LIST

1. Maintenance in accordance with professional studies of our national needs and international commitments, of Regular Establishments organized and trained to utilize and employ materials of war developed by continuing scientific research, and backed by industry and labor kept intimately familiar with the manufacture of such materials.
2. Reconstruction of National Guard and Reserve components federally aided and encouraged to maximum efficiency, and effectively coordinated with the Regular Services, and universal military training.
3. Increase in active and retired pay and allowances to meet risen costs so as to enable maintenance of American standards of living, and protection of such pay from reduction through income taxes.
4. Institution of orderly promotion systems in the Regular Establishments with recognition of war service and war ranks to prevent stagnation, and to insure the maintenance of high professional standards.
5. Continuation and expansion of service schools, including the Army and Navy Staff College, attendance of which shall be open to National Guard and Reserve officers.
6. Suitable rank and retirement benefits for former enlisted personnel and warrant officers who served as commissioned officers during the war.
7. Grant of the same rights and benefits to those who elect to remain in the Services as will be enjoyed by the discharged veterans.
8. Upward revision of pension scales to insure Service widows and dependents a living income.
9. Compensation for Service personnel who use privately owned automobiles on government business.
10. Maintenance of stock piles of strategic materials.

It is our understanding that there will meet during the fall a Board to select officers of the grade of captain for the temporary grade of Rear Admiral. Because of the world situation and especially the changes in command operations which the development of atomic warfare will necessitate, it is imperative that the selectees designated shall be of the highest qualifications as shown not only by their records but by knowledge of their promise and adaptability to meet new situations. It is one of the defects of the selection system that members of the Boards to consider available officers are on occasion, swayed by their likes or dislikes, a perfectly human failing, and in consequence officers have been passed over who are fully capable of discharging the duties of higher ranks. Aware of this fact, Congress has been endeavoring to develop a solution that would insure just and equitable decisions, among them the appointment of an outstanding civilian without bias, to serve as chairman of a Board, or the submission to a Board of the records of officers designated by numbers rather than by their names. The High Command of the Navy, as will be that of the Army, should the selection plan under consideration for the latter Service be adopted, insist that the Boards should be solely naval or military since presumably senior officers know the personnel and have personal knowledge which helps them to reach proper decisions. Accepting the situation that exists, as must be the case, it seems to us there is in the hands of the Navy Department a means by which the Navy and the Country would be satisfied that only superior officers are selected. That is to name, especially for selections for the grade of Rear Admiral, as members of the Board, officers of the type and judgment of Fleet Admiral Nimitz, who unfortunately as Chief of Naval Operations would be unavailable, or Fleet Admiral Halsey, whose service during the War is likewise historic. Such men of battle experience would know what a Captain must have in order to be a squadron or Fleet commander, and their one thought would be to make selections which would insure their succession for future war operations by officers who would render brilliant command service comparable to that they gave. Moreover, the country would have confidence in their decisions, an advantage we are sure will enter into the Navy Department's decision in naming the members of the Board to select officers for Flag rank.

As the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL observes the eighty-third anniversary of its founding, it takes great pleasure at the same time in welcoming into the Regular Services the newly commissioned officers of the Armed Forces—9,800 in the Army, 11,385 in the Navy, and 4,000 in the Marine Corps. It is a proud and honorable profession these men have selected for their lives' careers. They cannot hope to become wealthy as will some of their friends in other professions and in business, but they will have satisfaction in serving and protecting their country in a capacity that will demand at all times the highest mental and physical fitness. It is a noble company which they have joined. Just as the pages of the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL have recorded in the past the deeds and difficulties, the victories and public support and acclaim in War, the struggles and makeshifts in the lean years of peace, so will the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL in the years to come record the works of the officers now entering the services and press for their proper promotion and adequate support. In its pages they will be able to trace their entire careers from their first commissioning (this issue lists the 900 newly accepted officers of the Regular Army), their transfers of stations, their weddings, engagements, the births of their children, the official orders and legislation which mold their futures—in fact everything that bears on their life and profession. Planned for all the Armed Forces are new promotion systems which will govern the speed with which they may progress through the grades and also new systems of forced attrition aimed, like the sword of Damocles, to be a constant threat to those who do not measure up to the Services' standards. It will be the object of the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL, as it has been for past generations of Service personnel, to keep the officers fully informed of every development which bears on these important matters, to receive their suggestions and comments, and to work editorially for the enactment of personnel systems which will meet with their support and approval and at the same time contribute to the highest efficiency of the National Defense. No military or naval organization can perform at its best unless morale is high. It is in this respect that the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL has served in the past and will continue to serve in the future. We are proud to join with the newly commissioned officers for the continued security and welfare of our Country.

Service Humor

Gave Chase

The train came to a sudden grinding stop. "What has happened, Conductor?" asked a nervous, old lady.

"Nothing much, we just ran over a cow."

"Was it on the track?"

"No," replied the disgusted conductor, "We chased it into the barn."

—The Bealiner.

Mistaken Identity

As the pretty girl entered the crowded car, he rose to his feet.

"No, you mustn't give me your seat—I insist," said the young woman.

"You insist all you like, Miss," was the reply, "but I'm getting off here."

—Ft. Meade Post.

Experienced

Customer (in drug store on Sunday morning): "Here's a dime, please give me change for it!"

Druggist: "Here you are, I hope you enjoy the sermon!"

Belvoir Castle.

Lost and Found

Zeke—Clem, where do all those bugs go in the winter time, huh?

Clem—Search me, Zeke.

Bolling Fld Beam.

Cured

"Good morning, Mrs. McCarthy," said the doctor. "And did you take your husband's temperature, as I told you?"

"Yes, doctor. I borrowed a barometer and placed it on his chest; it said 'very dry,' so I bought him a quart of beer and he's gone back to work."

—The Bealiner.

First Impression

First GI: What kind of a guy is the new first sergeant?

Second GI: Oh, at first you don't like him much, but when you get to know him, you hate him.

Stewart Fld. Prop Wash.

Safe Side

A sailor in the Navy chapel was seen to bow slightly whenever the name of Satan was mentioned. One day the chaplain met him and asked him to explain the situation.

"Well," he said, "Politeness costs nothing, and you never know."

—Skyscrapers.

Going Too Far

A slightly tipsy gentleman walked into the Western Union office, took a pencil, spent three or four minutes in deep thought and wrote this message to a friend in St. Louis:

"Tra la, tra la, tra la, tra la."

He signed it and presented it to the lady behind the counter. After checking it she said: "That will be 64 cents."

The gentleman paid her and she said: "You can add two more words to that message for the same price. You only used eight words."

The man looked over the message without comment.

"What would you suggest adding?" he finally asked.

"Well, how about just adding 'tra la'?" she said in her helpful manner.

"No," he said firmly, "that would make it sound silly."

—Bealiner.

Col. Julian L. Schley has resigned as Governor of Panama Canal, effective 28 August. The President has designated Col. Clarence S. Ridley, CE, to succeed Colonel Schley as Governor of the Canal.

50 Years Ago

The Bicycle Corps of the 25th U. S. Inf. appear to have had a very successful but fatiguing trip, in their recent expedition from Fort Missoula, Mont., to test the bicycle for military purposes. On reaching Mammoth Hot Springs, Wyo., they had traveled in 53 days of actual traveling 323 miles of the hilliest and rockiest roads in the United States going through sand, mud, over rocks, ruts, etc. Every day except one they had the wind against them.

80 Years Ago

The advantages gained by Prussia in the re-arrangement of Germany cannot be too highly estimated. They have raised her at once from the position of a second rate to that of a first-rate power in Europe. She enters upon a new career, as the rival of France and England upon the seas, where we shall probably see a renewal of the old struggle for supremacy.

Air Base Named for Maj. Wilkins

Hdqs., Pacific Air Command, Tokyo.—The Yokota Army Air Base was dedicated in ceremonies 15 Aug. and officially named "Wilkins Field," in honor of Maj. Raymond H. Wilkins, one of the outstanding Army Air Forces' fliers in Pacific warfare.

Maj. Gen. K. B. Wolfe, Commanding General of the Fifth Air Force, who landed the first plane on the concrete runway, named the field for Major Wilkins in a speech made before a number of civilian and military guests in front of base operations.

General Wolfe was introduced by Col. Edwin B. Bobzien, Commanding Officer of Yokota Army Air Base. Also seated on the platform, among other ranking officers, were Brig. Gens. J. V. Craff and David W. Hutchison, who represented Headquarters, Pacific Air Command, in the absence of Lt. Gen. Ennis C. Whitehead, Commanding General, who was unable to attend.

Yokota Airport, designed for Army B-29 planes has an 8,000 foot concrete runway, the longest and heaviest yet to be constructed in Japan.

Located about 18 miles from Tokyo, the project has been under the immediate supervision of the 1180th Engineer Construction Group, using the 43rd Engineer Construction Battalion as the construction agency and employing, through Japanese contractors, a total of some 1,500 Japanese workmen.

Flight Nurses

Thirteen officers of the Army Nurse Corps graduated from the Army Air Forces School of Aviation Medicine, Randolph Field, Texas, on 16 Aug., as "Flight Nurses." The congratulatory message was delivered by Lt. Col. Fratis L. Duff, MC, Assistant Commandant of the School who also made the presentation of diplomas.

XB-36 Flies

The Army Air Forces' latest and largest bomber, the Consolidated XB-36, was successfully flown in its first air-borne test 8 Aug. from the Consolidated-Vultee Corporation plant at Fort Worth, Tex.

The XB-36 rose from the runway, circled the field for 38 minutes, and settled safely to the ground in a performance that exceeded expectations. The flight was witnessed by AAF officers and Consolidated-Vultee officials.

The XB-36 is 163 feet long, has a wing-span of 230 feet and a rudder height of 47 feet, six inches.

Bomb-carrying capacity is more than 30 tons.

AAF Accident Rate Drops

The Army Air Forces aircraft accident rate for June, 1946, the latest month for which complete figures are available, was the lowest of any month since the war ended, General Carl Spaatz, Commanding General of the Army Air Forces, disclosed this week.

Reports of the AAF Flying Safety Service showed that the accident rate of 45 aircraft accidents per 100,000 hours flying time in June was the lowest since July, 1945, before the end of the war.

Comparative figures indicated that the AAF had 108 major accidents in the continental U. S. during June, a marked decline from the wartime accident peak of 2,045 in August, 1943. Fatal accidents in June numbered only 13, a decrease of 80% from the same month a year ago.

Air Mail Rates

Air mail postage rates between United States Post Offices including Army and Navy Post Offices overseas will be five cents an ounce effective 1 October.

AAF Football League

An extensive, all-sports athletic program planned for the peacetime Army Air Forces, with inter-command and inter-service competition to stem from individual airbase athletic programs, will begin with this year's football season.

Plans for football and other sports were formulated at a meeting of command representatives at AAF Headquarters. To insure the success of the program an Athletic Council will be formed to control inter-command and the AAF's inter-service competition.

Five of the eight major AAF commands will compete for the 1946 football championship. Little competition is anticipated with teams outside the AAF League and inter-service competition is not expected to begin until 1947.

Lack of players and coaching personnel has kept three of the AAF's major commands from inter-command football competition this year. However, it is expected that they will compete in 1947.

Newly appointed director of the inter-command program is Maj. Norman Fertig, former football star at Michigan State.

The tentative schedule announced by AAF Headquarters is as follows:

11-13 October—Air Defense Command vs. Air University at Montgomery.

18-20 October—Air Transport Command vs. Air Training Command at Shreveport.

25-27 October—Air Transport Command vs. Strategic Air Command at Washington, D. C.; Air Defense Command vs. Air Training Command at Hempstead.

1-3 November—Air Defense Command vs. Strategic Air Command at Colorado Springs; Air Training Command vs. Air University at Montgomery.

8-10 November—Air Training Command vs. Strategic Air Command at Shreveport.

15-17 November—Air University vs. Strategic Air Command at Colorado Springs; Air Defense Command vs. Air Transport Command at Memphis.

20-24 November—Air Transport Command vs. Air University at Memphis.

Pearl Harbor Report

RESPONSIBILITIES IN HAWAII
FOLLOWING is a continuation from last week's issue of the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL of vital portions of the report of the Joint Congressional Committee on the Investigation of the Pearl Harbor Attack treating of the "Responsibilities in Hawaii":

Commanding General's Reliance
On the Navy

It is apparent from the evidence that General Short was depending on the Navy to give him timely and adequate warning of any enemy force approaching Hawaii. He stated that from repeated conversations with the Navy he knew that the Japanese naval vessels were supposed to be either in their home ports or proceeding south; that he knew the Navy had task forces at sea with reconnaissance from Midway, Wake, Palmyra, and Johnston Islands, which would render an air attack highly improbable; that the War Plans Officer on Admiral Kimmel's staff, Admiral Morris, had stated that there was no chance of a surprise attack on Oahu; that it was only through the Navy that he could obtain information concerning the movement of Japanese vessels; and that distant reconnaissance was a Navy responsibility.

General Short's unfortunate predicament on the morning of 7 December was occasioned to a degree by reason of his reliance on the Navy to provide him timely warning. However, the fact that he was relying on the Navy does not excuse General Short for his failure to determine whether his assumptions with respect to what the Navy was doing were correct. He assumed operations of the task forces rendered an air attack highly improbable; he assumed the Navy was conducting distant reconnaissance from Oahu; he assumed the Navy would advise him of the location and movement of Japanese warships. Yet simple inquiry by General Short would have revealed that the task forces effected no coverage of the dangerous northern approaches to Oahu; that the Navy was not conducting distant reconnaissance; and that the Navy did not know where the Japanese carrier strength was for over a week prior to 7 December. We can understand General Short's dependence on the Navy, but we cannot overlook the fact that he made these assumptions with no attempt to verify their correctness.

Interference with Training

General Short has pointed out that the factor of training was considered in selecting Alert No. 1; that the use of Alerts 2 or 3 would have seriously interfered with his training mission. He observed that the soldiers and officers of his command were in large part relatively new to the Army and to their specialized tasks and that regular training was essential. He stated that the War Department dispatch of 27 November "had not indicated in any way that our training mission was modified, suspended or abolished, and that all troops were to go immediately into tactical status."

General Short has pointed out that the Hawaiian Air Force had the particular mission of training combat crews and ferrying B-17's to the Philippine Islands. He recalled that on 8 September 1941, 9 trained combat teams were sent to the Philippines; that before 27 November, 18 trained combat teams had been ready to the mainland and 17 more teams were ready to go to the mainland for ferrying purposes; and that 12 more combat crews had to be trained for planes expected to arrive at an early date. He observed that only 6 of his 12 Flying Fortresses were in condition and available for the training and that it was imperative General Martin make maximum use of these planes for training. He felt that if war were momentarily expected in the Hawaiian coastal frontier, the training considerations would give way but that every indication was that the War Department expected the war to break out, if at all, only in the far Pacific and not at Hawaii.

As has been earlier indicated, however, the very fact of having suggested to General Short that he undertake reconnaissance was an indication of the possibility of an attack on Hawaii from without. This committee believes that the warning dispatch of 27 November was ample notice to a general in the field that his training was now secondary—that his primary mission had become execution of the orders contained in the dispatch and the effecting of maximum defensive security.

The Order to Undertake Reconnaissance

The very fact that General Short noted the order with respect to undertaking reconnaissance contained in the dispatch of 27 November and thereafter instituted an alert against sabotage only demonstrates a failure to grasp the serious circumstances confronting his command. It is to be recalled in this connection that Army commanders in the Philippines, at Panama, and on the West Coast, upon receiving the dispatch of 27 November in substantially the same terms as General Short, instituted full measures adequately to alert their commands.

The observation has been made by General Short that he presumed the man who prepared the message of 27 November ordering him to undertake reconnaissance was unfamiliar with the fact that the Navy was responsible for distant reconnaissance. It is inconceivable, however, that in the face of a specific directive with respect to reconnaissance General Short should not have requested clarification from the War Department. In the event he felt the latter did not mean what it had unequivocally said and had failed to take into consideration the Navy's responsibility for reconnaissance. This fact takes on added importance when it is realized that the 27 November dispatch was the first and only dispatch General Short had received signed by General Marshall, the Chief of Staff of the Hawaiian Department. It was a command directive which should have received the closest scrutiny and consideration by the Hawaiian general.

Certainly the least that General Short could have done was to advise Admiral Kimmel or Admiral Bloch and consult with them at once concerning the fact that he had been directed to undertake reconnaissance if he presumed the Navy was to perform this function. The Joint Coastal Frontier Defense Plan, the very document wherein the Navy assumed responsibility for distant reconnaissance, contained in an annex thereto provision for joint operations when the Commanding General of the Hawaiian Department and the Naval Base Defense Officer agree that a threat of a hostile raid or attack is sufficiently imminent. The failure to appreciate the necessity for following through on an order to undertake reconnaissance is not in keeping with the good judgment expected from the commanding general of the Hawaiian Department.

It is further to be borne in mind that General Short had six mobile radar units which were available for reconnaissance use. He ordered their operations from 4 a. m. to 7 a. m., in addition to the normal training operation of radar during the day, but failed to provide the necessary officers handling the equipment with the knowledge that war was at hand in order that they would intelligently attach significance to information which the radar might develop. In testifying before the committee concerning the operation of radar, General Short said: "That (the radar) was put into alert during what I considered the most dangerous hours of the day for an air attack, from 4 o'clock to 7 o'clock a. m. daily. The very fact that radar was ordered operated at all was in recognition of the danger of a threat from without; indeed it was only in contemplation of such a threat that General Short would have been supplied radar at all."

The Short Reply

It is recalled that the dispatch of 27 November, No. 472, carried instructions to report measures taken and that General Short, referring to the dispatch by number, advised that the Hawaiian Department was "alerted to prevent sabotage. Liaison with Navy." As paraphrased and reviewed in the War Department, this reply read: "Report Department alerted to prevent sabotage. Liaison with Navy reurad four seven two twenty seven." No action was taken by the War Department following receipt of this reply.

General Short has stated that the silence and failure of the War Department to reply to his report of measures taken constituted reasonable grounds for his belief that his action was exactly what the War Department desired. He has pointed out that if the action taken by him was not consistent with the desires of the War Department it should have informed him of that fact.

The question at this point, however, is not whether Washington should have replied to General Short's dispatch but whether the commanding general was entitled to believe that his reply had adequately informed Washington that he had or had not carried out the orders contained in General Marshall's warning of 27 November. General Gerow has already assumed full responsibility for failure to follow up to insure that the alert to prevent sabotage was not the only step taken by the Hawaiian Department under the circumstances. No one in Washington appears to have been impressed with or caught the fact that General Short's report of measures taken was inadequate and not sufficiently responsive to the directive. This failure of supervision cannot be condoned.

However, a reasonable inference from the statement "liaison with Navy" was that through liaison with the Navy he had taken the necessary steps to implement the War Department warning, including the undertaking of reconnaissance. This was clearly recognized by General Short. In testifying before the Army Pearl Harbor Board he was asked the question: "In your message of 27 November, you say, 'liaison with the Navy.' Just what did you mean by that? How did that cover anything required by that particular message?"

General Short. To my mind it meant very definitely keeping in touch with the Navy, knowing what information they had and what they were doing."

Question. Did it indicate in any way that you expected the Navy to carry out its part of that agreement for long-distance reconnaissance?

General Short. Yes. Without any question, whether I had sent that or not, it would have affected it, because they signed a definite agreement which was approved by the Navy as well as our Chief of Staff.

General Short was not entitled to presume that his responsibilities as Commander of the Hawaiian Department had been discharged or shifted to the War Department through dispatch of his reply. This conclusion is most fully appreciated when he admitted was not clear concerning the order to undertake reconnaissance. The War Department was entitled to expect the commanding general had carried out the order to effect reconnaissance or in the alternative that he would have requested clarifying instructions. Conceding that General Short presumed the War Department would correct him if he was in error, the fact that supplemental instructions were not issued does not serve to remove that error. Had he made no report whatever the situation in Hawaii on the morning of 7 December would have been the same.

Although General Short specifically advised the War Department on 27 November that he was maintaining "liaison with Navy" the evidence is unmistakably clear, as will subsequently appear, that he did not establish liaison with the Navy concerning the action to be taken pursuant to the Department's warning message.

Action Which Was Not Taken Upon Receipt of the 27 November Dispatch

Apart from instituting an alert against sabotage and ordering the operation of radar from 4 to 7 a. m., no other appreciable steps were taken by the commanding general to prepare his command for defense against possible hostiles.

No change was made in the state of readiness of aircraft which were on four hours' notice. There was therefore no integration of aircraft and radar, even in the latter's limited operation from 4 to 7 a. m. The maximum distance radar could pick up approaching planes was approximately 130 miles. With the Army aircraft on 4 hours' notice a warning from the radar information center would have been of little avail.

Operation of radar was not instituted on a 24-hour basis. It was so operated immediately after the attack, although as a matter of fact it was not until 17 December that the aircraft warning service was placed under complete control of the Air Corps and the Signal Corps, handling the training phases, removed from the picture.

No action was taken with a view to tightening up the antiaircraft defenses. The ammunition for the 60 mobile antiaircraft guns was located in Aliamana Crater, between 2 and 3 miles from Fort Shafter. The crews of the antiaircraft guns were not alerted in such manner as to provide effective defense even with maximum warning from the radar information center.

As in the case of Admiral Kimmel, no effective action was taken with a view to integration and coordination of Army-Navy facilities for defense.

SERVICE NEWS AND GOSSIP

Foreign Affairs—There is a perceptible hardening of American sentiment which the Washington Government is expressing, against the aggressive policy of the Soviet Government. The American people want peace and have made concessions to attain it which Moscow has misinterpreted, but the point is being reached where further bending to Soviet pressure will be refused. The sentiment of this country was bluntly expressed by Fleet Admiral Halsey at a conference at the Navy Department this week, immediately after his return from a successful good-will tour of South America. Replying to Soviet charges that the "courtesy" calls on Grecian and probably Turkish ports, and like movements of British warcraft, were designed to deny just Soviet claims upon the Dardanelles, the Admiral in a typical Halseyite statement, declared that "it is nobody's damp business where we go," meaning on the high seas, for the freedom of which America always has contended, or to pay our respects to friendly Nations. It has been noted in Moscow that the carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt stopped at Lisbon, and thereby accelerated the negotiations for our use of the Azore Islands in case of need, and now that Capital is blustering about our appearance in the eastern Mediterranean. It fears the presence of the carrier and accompanying cruisers and destroyers is a demonstration which will support the elections tomorrow in Greece, where all reports forecast the resumption of the Throne by King George; which will lessen Tito's influence in Yugoslavia who probably instructed by his Master, deemed it expedient to yield to our vigorous demands arising from the wanton shooting down of two of our transport planes and the death of three and, perhaps, five of our soldiers who were in the latest aircraft to be destroyed; which will stiffen Turkey, which told Moscow in no uncertain words that it would not put up with any restrictions upon her sovereignty or security; and which will have weight in connection with the delicate questions of Egypt, Palestine and the whole of the Near and Middle East. Nor is this the whole picture, which is the basis for the firmer policy we have adopted. There is the quarrelling that has been going on at the so-called peace conference of the 21 nations in Paris with the Russian delegation using it as a platform for propaganda and, of course to wring more concessions from the Allies and particularly the United States, which did so much to prevent the conquest of their country by Hitlerite Germany. There is the contest over Germany and Austria, control of which means the control of Europe, with the Soviets endeavoring to incorporate those states in their system, and we determined in our opposition and moving as our first step to unite the American and British zones for their economic and political improvement, and thus face Soviet penetration with decisive action which will tend to force Moscow to observe the Potsdam decision relating to the revival of Germany, and, at least, have a part of that country attached to what the Russians attack as an Anglo-American bloc. There, finally, is the Far Eastern situation, with General of the Army MacArthur stoically resisting Russian demands and intrigue, and with Lieutenant General Hodge constantly but ably meeting Soviet manoeuvres to control all of Korea, and our soldiers, numerically smaller than the Russian strength, annoyed and insulted at the frontier of the two zones. There is China where General of the Army Marshall is continuing his unsuccessful efforts to end the civil war and develop an agreement between the Chiang Kai-shek government and the so-called communists directed from Yenan. Other matters indicate the strain between Moscow and the West, among them the support of Russia to the proposal to admit Albania and Outer Mongolia as members of the United Nations, which would increase the Soviet vote in that organization. Then there is the difference arising from the refusal of Russia to relinquish the veto power in connection with atomic energy. In the light of all these irritants, it is not surprising that we have been forced to become tougher while still hoping for the establishment of relations which will facilitate peace. There is still talk of a meeting of the top leaders of the Big Four, which will become more insistent should the conference of their Foreign Affairs Ministers at Paris held in an endeavor to reach agreements acceptable to the 21 nations, prove abortive. The President invited Generalissimo Stalin to come to the United States, and he would like him to do so in order that relations of the four countries could be placed upon a sound and peaceful basis. Perhaps in view of the conditions that prevail, the Soviet Leader will conclude that such a meeting is desirable. Should he make this decision the world would believe that Russia really is as anxious for peace as we are.

The whole temper of the East is so largely influenced by the state of mind in India that profound interest attaches to the start of that uneasy land's new interim all-native government, created by Lord Wavell with full cooperation by the India Congress and none at all from the powerful Moslem league. The Moslem attitude is about as discouraging a circumstance as could be thought of, and the attempted murder of a non League-Moslem member of the new government gave swift evidence of how violent are the methods of Indian political opposition. Even so, there seems no sensible step save to get the interim government under Nehru under way. It represents the vast majority of India; it invites the participation of minority Moslems, Sikhs, Parsees on a reasonable minority basis; it is pledged to put itself under the later government just as soon as the later government can be created; it is in short a reasonable approach toward representative government, and the question now is whether India is ripe for representative government in this or any other form. The start is, as remarked, discouraging. The riot and slaughter in Calcutta was hardly over before new riots in Delhi produced a few deaths; the attempt on the life of the non-League Moslem member of government took place five hours after Lord Wavell named him to that dubious honor; more disorder is inevitable. Yet Nehru is proceeding calmly with his plans for interim government, and professedly hopeful that cooperation will come about as it is earned. He has seen a good many riots in his career, viewing a good many of them from the jail window, and is a hard man to discourage.

Ordnance Department—Brig. Gen. E. L. Ford has been named European Theater Chief of Ordnance, relieving Col. T. H. Nixon, Headquarters, U. S. Forces, European Theater announced. Commissioned as a 2nd Lt. in Coast Artillery on graduation from West Point in 1917, General Ford was detailed to Ordnance in 1919 while in France.

General Ford is married and has two daughters. Mrs. Ford expects to arrive in the ET during October.

Judge Advocate Generals Department—For meritorious service and superior performance of duty with the GHQ Legal Section in Manila, formerly known as War Crimes Branch, Maj. Glicerio Opinion, Judge Advocate Section, PA, has been awarded the Army Commendation Ribbon by the commander-in-chief, U. S. Army Forces, Pacific. Col. Alva C. Carpenter, Chief, SCAP Legal Section, Tokyo, presented the award. Maj. Opinion was assistant prosecutor in the Yamashita trial and chief prosecutor in the Toyozo Morita trial. He is presently chief prosecutor in a Cebu atrocity case involving four war criminal suspects.

Infantry School—Two Legion of Merit awards and two Letters of Merit were presented last week by Maj. Gen. John W. O'Daniel, Commandant of The Infantry School, in a formal decoration ceremony on School Troops parade ground. Col. John F. R. Seitz of Academic Department's tactical section received the Legion of Merit for his work as commanding officer of the 26th Infantry 1943-45; while Maj. Andrew W. Petrosky received a similar award for his work during the war years as head of the book department of The Infantry School. To 1st Sgt. Jewel Shaw and T. Sgt. Eustaquio Ayala went Letters of Merit for faithful service, high standards of performance, and excellent character rating.

Two hundred and forty Officer Candidates have begun the final 17-week training cycle to be held in The Infantry School's Third Student Training Regiment. The class, largest ever enrolled in the training regiment, marks the end of short-period officer training instigated during the war. Future officer candidate classes will require approximately six months' training at The Infantry School and another three months at specialized branch schools before the officer candidates may obtain their commissions.

Capt. Wilson M. Stone, assistant Adjutant General of The Infantry School, left last week for Fort Bragg, N. C., where he will be discharged from the service.

Col. James P. Hill, until 15 Aug. a member of PMS&T Class number five at The Infantry School, has been named commander of Task Force "Williwaw," one of the three Army Ground Forces units that will engage in cold weather equipment tests for several months this winter.

Col. Hamilton Thorn, commanding Third Student Training Regiment, presented 191 diplomas to members of the Second Special Non-commissioned Officer Class last week following special graduation exercises for the group. Col. Irvine C. Scudder gave the graduation address.

The 83d Field Artillery Battalion, originally organized from the 1st Cavalry Division at Fort Knox, Ky., was reactivated at Fort Benning this month from personnel of School Troops, The Infantry School, under command of Lt. Col. Donald C. Cubbison, with Maj. John Beidler as executive officer.

Battle Cruisers—The three battle cruisers Alaska, Guam and Hawaii represent the Navy's second start in the development of battle cruisers for the fleet. All three are now in the Inactive Fleet in New York, but the reason for their inactivation is primarily their personnel requirements rather than deficiencies in operating efficiency.

Compared with a battleship, a battle cruiser is smaller, lighter, and of less fire-power, with 12-inch guns instead of 16-inchers. Yet their complement is so nearly the same in Navy Department views that the extra men required to man a battleship are worth while. The Navy lists its peacetime complements for battleships as 84 officers and 1,724 enlisted men, and for battle cruisers as approximately 70 officers and 1,300 enlisted men. A tabulation of peacetime complements of all the major combatant-type vessels is as follows:

BB—Battleship .....	84 off. ....	1,724 enlisted men
CVB—Carriers of FDR-class .....	100 off. ....	2,410 enlisted men
CV—Carriers of Essex-class .....	82 off. ....	1,868 enlisted men
CB—Battle Cruisers .....	70 off. ....	1,300 enlisted men
CA—Heavy Cruisers .....	54 off. ....	1,080 enlisted men
CL—Light Cruisers .....	49 off. ....	920 enlisted men
DD—Destroyers .....	11 off. ....	257 enlisted men

The Navy started once before to build battle cruisers, but in 1926 two hulls laid down as battle cruisers were changed to carriers which became the Saratoga and old Lexington.

The Alaska, Guam and Hawaii joined the Pacific Fleet in time to see considerable action. Three sister-ships—to be called the Philippines, Puerto Rico and Samoa—were cancelled in June 1943. At this time the emphasis was on speed, which the battle cruisers possess, but the speed was more badly needed then in carrier forces.

The Alaska-class cruiser, which resembles somewhat the Scharnhorst and Gneisenau, has a displacement of 28,000 tons. They are useful as high-speed escorts, but while they may not have an active part in the Navy for some years, this will be due to utilization of the Navy's manpower in what it considers a more propitious manner.

Joint Army-Navy Maneuvers—Marine Corps training teams from San Diego will put the Army's 2d Division at Fort Lewis, Wash., through an intensive course of schooling ashore before the GI's embark for joint Army-Navy war games scheduled in the San Diego area this fall. The Marines are attached to the Troop Training Unit of Pacific Fleet Amphibious Forces, under Maj. Gen. LeRoy Hunt, USMC.

Preliminary training has been started by the 2d Division. While officers are receiving indoctrination in amphibious tactics, combat engineers are building 30-foot wooden towers where GI's of the Indianhead division will learn to clamber down cargo nets when intensive training starts in October. Maj. Gen. Paul W. Kendall, USA, commanding general, reported that all units of the 2d Division except the 38th Infantry regiment, which is undergoing mountain training at Camp Carson, Colo., will participate in the San Diego maneuvers.

With full combat equipment, the division will be loaded aboard Navy transports in the Tacoma-Olympia area and sail to Southern California waters, where a series of joint practice landings will culminate in a realistic invasion of an unannounced section of the coast. The Fifth Fleet will support the landing assault, and air support will be provided by the 12th Air Force stationed at March Field, Calif.

Army Nurse Corps—Col. Florence A. Blanchfield, chief of the Army Nurse Corps, took time out on her tour of Far East installations recently to visit the war crimes trials before the International Military Tribunal at Tokyo.

The veteran of nearly two-score years of army nursing was accompanied by Lt. Col. Mary G. Phillips, Maj. Grace E. Alt, and Capt. Edna Lura, all of the Army Nurse Corps on duty in AFPAF.

Colonel Blanchfield, who has visited Army hospitals and other installations in the Pacific theatre is planning to return to Washington about 18 Sept.

President Truman in Bermuda—The visit of President Truman to Bermuda should point to the importance of this tiny island as a Naval Base during the war. Although little publicized because of security requirements and in view of its minuteness in comparison with other island bases which figured as prominently in the winning of the war, Bermuda of all the bases obtained from Britain in exchange for 50 over-age four-piper destroyers was most changed both in appearance and tempo to accommodate the Army and Navy of the United States and forces from Canada, Free France and England.

Bermuda is the most northerly of all coral islands in the world, only slightly more than 19 square miles in size, and 685 miles from either New York or Norfolk. Until the Americans arrived with jeeps and trucks, the few roads which wind about the island had not been traveled by vehicles other than horse-drawn carriages, such as that in which Mr. Truman was photographed with his Military and Naval Aides, and bicycles. The people of Bermuda were deeply disturbed at first that the new conception of hemispheric defense might effect the status of the ancient colony as an integral part of the British Commonwealth. After one group had petitioned London for a mutual pledge of loyalty, President Franklin Roosevelt gave assurances that no transfer of sovereignty was involved.

Bermuda early became a harbor of refuge three days from the States which convoys bound for Africa and England were glad to make, if even for overnight safety from Nazi submarines. Rear Admiral Jules James was the first Navy commander there, and was succeeded by Rear Admiral I. G. Sowell, a former Naval Academy football star, who did much to discipline both American service men and the native Bermudians toward appreciation of each other. Brig. Gen. Alden G. Strong was the Army commander.

A Naval Operating Base and Naval Air Station were soon built, and improvements were made to His Majesty's Dockyard so that repairs might be made to any allied ships. The Army installed coastal defenses, Navy planes flew anti-submarine and convoy patrols, and small patrol craft maintained surface searches. Ships damaged in the Mediterranean stopped there en route to the States. The USS Card and USS Charger and their escorting destroyers, chief among the sub-hunting teams which roamed the Atlantic, rested there often. Bermuda was also a short-time home for many Navy men who went there for shakedown aboard destroyers and destroyer escorts, for exhausting gunnery and anti-submarine exercises in an area roughened up by the Gulf Stream and seasonal Bermuda hurricane weather. Ships of the Free French which survived the North African invasion made their way to Bermuda en route to the United States, and so did Italian submarines when they needed overhaul for action against their former ally.

Just as during the war when Bermudians could look down into Port Royal Bay and see warships lying at anchor, they can now see the Presidential yacht USS Williamsburg and her escort, the destroyer USS Weiss.

Signal Corps—In the Office of the Chief Signal Officer, Col. James S. Willis has been designated Director, Engineering Division; and Maj. Harold W. Rice has been named Chief, Publications Branch. Other assignments include that of Col. Charles N. Simpson to Procurement and Distribution Service, with station at the Storage and Issue Agency; Lt. Col. Kenneth E. Belieu to Plans and Operations Division; Lt. Col. William B. Feindel, Jr., to Distribution Division; Lt. Col. Willice E. Groves to Engineering and Technical Service; and Lt. Col. Clinton W. Janes to Communications Liaison Branch.

Col. R. G. H. Meyer, until recently Director of the Squier Signal Laboratory, has been assigned to the European Theater. Col. George F. Moynahan has been named Acting Director of the Laboratory.

Thomas J. Watson, President of the International Business Machines Corporation, and Walter Lemon, Vice President of Globe Wireless, were presented with War Department Certificates of Appreciation by Brig. Gen. Frank E. Stoner, Assistant Chief Signal Officer, at a recent ceremony in New York. The awards were made in connection with the development of automatic cryptographic equipment and radiotype printers during the war.

The Legion of Merit has been awarded to Majors E. Dale Marston and Douglas W. Overton, Signal Corps, for distinguished war services with the Signal Security Agency, Military Intelligence Service.

Four midget storage batteries, about the size of a candy bar and weighing less than six ounces each, are now being used at many weather stations throughout the country to power a radio transmitter up to about 12 miles above the earth's surface. Developed by the Signal Corps Engineering Laboratories in conjunction with several industrial organizations, these lead-acid storage batteries supply enough electrical energy to operate radiosondes, balloon-borne radio devices employed to gather meteorological data in the upper air.

Chaplains Corps—Col. Paul Maddox, Theater Chaplain, addressed a meeting of all Jewish Chaplains of the European Theater at the I. G. Farben Building recently. The chaplains came from Austria, Berlin, and all parts of the U. S. Zone of Germany to make plans for the High Holy Days observance of all Jewish Allied military and civilian personnel. Chaplain Maddox assured his listeners that every effort would be made by his office to insure the prompt and adequate delivery of supplies and the most complete coverage possible.

Chaplain (Col.) Patrick J. Ryan, Deputy Chief of Chaplains, addressed the graduating class and presented diplomas at the Commencement held at the Chaplain School, Ft. Oglethorpe, Ga., 29 Aug.

Recent visitors to the Office of the Chief of Chaplains were: Chaplain (Maj.) James A. O'Gorman, Tinker Field, Okla.; Chaplain (Capt.) John H. Clanton, Raleigh, N. C., (Relieved from Active Duty); Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Arthur Piepkorn, Idols., Chaplain School, Ft. Oglethorpe; Chaplain (Maj.) Cecil L. Propst, Post Chaplain, Ft. Myer, Va.; Chaplain (Capt.) Thomas E. Madden, Station Hospital, Ft. George G. Meade, Md.; Chaplain (Capt.) Walter H. Ford, Camp Lee, Va.; Chaplain (Capt.) Mitchell C. Ateca, Buffalo, (Relieved from Active Duty); Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Stanley J. Reilly, Letterman General Hospital, San Francisco; Chaplain (Capt.) Sidney W. Cowles, Regional Hospital, Camp Lee, Va.; Chaplain (Maj.) William D. Buckley, Valley Forge General Hospital, Phoenixville, Pa.; Chaplain (Maj.) Nathan E. Barasch, Oliver General Hospital, Augusta, Ga., and Chaplain (Maj.) William A. Gamble, (Inact. Res.), of Charlotte, N. C., who was on duty in the Office of the Chief of Chaplains from November, 1940 to August, 1941, was a recent visitor.

Service Appropriations—There has been some discussion within the House Appropriations Committee of devising a method whereby consideration of the appropriations for the War and Navy Departments may be correlated by the same subcommittee. No decision has been reached but it is understood that the subject is a live one in the committee and probably will be taken up early in the next Congress.

During hearings at the last session, Representative Engel of Michigan remarked that although he had been on the subcommittee on Military appropriations for ten years and is the oldest member of the subcommittee, "We never knew what the Navy Subcommittee on Appropriations was doing, and the Navy Subcommittee on Appropriations never knew what we were doing. We are handling the Army arm on the one hand and the Subcommittee on Navy Appropriations is handling the Navy arm, and the one hand does not know what the other hand is doing, and it never has since I have been here." Here, Secretary of War Patterson, who was testifying remarked, "There is no way you can get, here in this subcommittee or in the other one, an overall view of the National Defense. You ask me questions about the Navy, and I say I do not know, and I do not. If the Navy Subcommittee on Appropriations asks a naval witness what the Army is doing I would be amazed if they knew. No; you have to operate in the dark."

Transportation Corps—Eight American Universities—Pennsylvania, Illinois, Washington, Purdue, Wyoming, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan—have arranged to incorporate transportation instruction in their ROTC programs, it was announced this week by Maj. Gen. Edmond Harrison Levey, Chief of Transportation. In each of these schools, the Transportation Corps will have an ROTC unit. It is planned to broaden the scope of the TC educational program in 1947 by establishing courses in other leading institutions of learning.

Negotiations for the installation of the Transportation Corps courses at the eight universities in which they will be introduced were conducted by Col. Dale Hoaglund, Training Regiment Commander at the Transportation Center, Ft. Eustis, Va., and Col. William Tow, Director of Training at Camp Kilmer, N. J.

Selected as instructors for the new courses, and now undergoing special training at Ft. Benning, Ga., are Lt. Col. John C. Oliver, Anthony H. Ortenz, Earl J. Brown and Cecil H. Davidson, and Maj. August Stayer, James D. Donlon, Jr., Raymond C. Conroy and Robert C. Speidel, all Transportation Corps.

Col. Edward T. Barrett of 2032 Browning Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif., is now commanding Ft. Hamilton, Brooklyn, N. Y., Maj. Gen. Ewart G. Plank, Commanding General, New York Port of Embarkation, announced. Colonel Barrett's most recent assignment was with the War Assets Administration, Washington, D. C. There he was Special Assistant to the Administrator, Lt. Gen. E. B. Gregory.

Bureau of Medicine and Surgery—At a recent meeting of the Reserve Consultants Board to the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery, Vice Admiral Ross T. McIntire, (MC), USN, Surgeon General of the Navy, expressed his deep appreciation for the assistance given by the members of the Board in establishing the residency training program as part of the Bureau's post-war planning. Rear Admiral Winchell M. Craig, (MC), USNR, now Professor of Neurosurgery at the University of Minnesota and Neurological Surgeon and Neurosurgical consultant at the Mayo Clinic, presided over the meeting.

The Board took steps to effect a complete revision of the library lists of medical books and journals required for all Naval Hospitals giving intern and residency type training. Recommendations of the individual consultants of the various specialists board will be followed.

Others in attendance at the meeting of the Consultants Board were: Commodore Alphonse McMahon, Captains F. J. Braceland, E. N. Broyles, Arthur M. Culler, Richard C. Eley, Howard K. Gray, Paul Greeley, Clark Johnson, Wendell Scott, and Marion Sulzberger; Commdrs. J. Roscoe Miller and Charles Geschickter (all officers of the Naval Medical Reserve Corps and, with the exception of Commodore McMahon, now on inactive duty) and Dr. M. G. Westmoreland representing the Council on Medical Education and Hospitals of the American Medical Association. In addition to Vice Admiral Ross T. McIntire, the following officers represented The Bureau of Medicine and Surgery: Rear Admiral John Harper (MC), USN; Commodore M. D. Willcutts, (MC), USN; Capt. M. V. Brown, (MC), USN-Ret.; Capt. F. L. McDaniel, (MC), USN; and Capt. L. R. Newhouse, (MC), USN. The Office of Naval Research was represented by Capt. A. J. Vorwald, (MC), USNR.

AGF Band—The Army Ground Forces Band, supplemented by a 40 piece orchestra and a glee club of 30 voices taken from within the organization, is a most versatile musical group. Capt. Chester E. Whiting, conductor of the organization, has detailed control of the orchestra to Master Sergeant Paul Kauriga and direction of the glee club to Technical Sergeant Arthur V. Donofrio, in a move designed to give the enlisted men added responsibility and experience by wielding the baton.

Enlisted men of Army Ground Forces who are skilled musicians and who have a minimum of one year remaining to serve are being sought to fill a limited number of vacancies in the Army Ground Forces Band, Captain Whiting announced this week.

Applicants whose musical background qualifies them for consideration and who are recommended by their commanders will be ordered to the band headquarters at Ft. Meade, Md., for an audition.

Those who are accepted can be sure of exceptional training under the capable supervision of Captain Whiting, an Army bandmaster for eighteen years, and the assistant conductors—Chief Warrant Officer Robert L. Bierly and Warrant Officer Junior Grade Robert C. Lewis.

Navy Economy Cuts—The Navy Department announced this week that unless immediate steps to reduce travel are taken by Bureaus, activities and the limited commands authorized to issue travel orders involving temporary additional duty for officers and intermittent travel orders for enlisted personnel, it will be necessary to impose allotments.

Commands issuing travel orders and commands requesting such orders have been instructed to make certain that travel is of such urgency and importance that its purpose cannot be efficiently accomplished by any other means. When possible, travel orders and directives to travel on repeated travel orders will prescribe a definite itinerary and will authorize travel by government air.

National Guard Bureau—To become Administrative Assistant to the Secretary General of the United Nations Organization, a State Department appointment, Lt. Arthur C. Nagle, of Clarion, Ohio, has been separated from the service where he has been on duty with the Aviation Group of the National Guard Bureau.

Lieutenant Nagle is a graduate of Georgetown University, School of Foreign Service, and served overseas in World War II in Headquarters of the AAF, MTO, in Italy.

Col. Jesse E. Graham, Inf., of the Regular Army, who has been on duty with the Organization and Training Group in the National Guard Bureau has been ordered by the War Department to command the PMS and T at the University of Indiana.

Bloomington, Ind. Colonel Graham had World War II service in Alaska from 1940 to 1943 and in the European Theater in 1945.

Adjutant General's Department—The mailing of Christmas packages to overseas personnel has been under study for the last week and in the near future nationwide announcements of suggested mailing dates will be made, together with other helpful information, Maj. Gen. Edward F. Witsell, The Adjutant General, said this week. Although many of the problems of recent years will not be encountered this season due to the number of men demobilized, every effort will be made to encourage the early sending of Christmas gifts to men at foreign stations, General Witsell announced.

Lt. Col. Paul R. Andrews, acting director of the Army Postal Service, has, in conjunction with U. S. Postal authorities, set recommended mailing dates this year from 15 Oct. to 15 Nov. At a conference held in Washington last Thursday, attended by Colonel Andrews, Lt. Col. George T. Bleakley, Maj. Joseph J. Spixick, all of the Army Postal Service, and Maj. David B. Emmons of the Office of Technical Information, AGO, plans were made to give widespread publicity to this subject throughout the country.

Col. Eustace M. Peixotto, assistant The Adjutant General for Management, returned Friday from St. Louis where he spent three days inspecting the AG Records Administration Center. He was accompanied by Col. R. V. Lee, Chief of the Army Administration Methods Branch, Personnel and Administrative Division, War Department General Staff.

Col. C. C. Carter, Chief of the Technical Information Office, AGO, who has been hospitalized at Walter Reed General Hospital is expected to return to his office 3 Sept.

Lt. Col. John W. Manning, of the Office of Technical Information, has gone on terminal leave. With the opening of the Fall term he will take up his new duties as professor of American Government at the American University in Washington, D. C.

Six officers, selected from the Adjutant General's Department at large, and chosen from the list of those recently integrated into the Regular Army, will be given a year's course in personnel and business administration at some of the country's leading universities, Col. Robert S. Nourse, Chief of the Adjutant General's Department Branch, said early this week. Upon completion of their courses, it is hoped to use these officers as instructors at The Adjutant General's School.

Lt. Col. Charles J. Hackett, formerly Veterans' Administration liaison officer for the AGO, and executive of the Management Planning Branch, left Washington early this week for The Command and Staff College where he has been detailed as an instructor.

Marine Corps—Although the Commandant has approved a revised enlisted rating structure for the Marine Corps, calling for creation of the rates of Chief Non-Commissioned Officer and NCO's first, second and third class in the top four pay grades, it is likely that this plan may yet be abandoned.

The new rating structure was approved by General A. A. Vandegrift not long ago. It eliminates the traditionally famous ratings of Sergeant Majors, Gunnery Sergeants, Paymaster Sergeants and Quartermaster Sergeants. The Marine Corps has long had five or more specific ratings within each pay grade. While the Non-Commissioned Officer ratings would replace those now established in the top four grades, the ratings of Corporal, Private First Class, and Private would be retained.

While this plan has been endorsed by the Commandant, it is said that many within the Corps oppose it. Before it can be put into effect, the approval of Secretary Forrestal would be required, and it is possible that he may delay consideration of the proposal until the Marines have gone over the proposal again.

Chemical Warfare Service—The unloading of the cargo of the Gas Ship, the Francis L. Lee—600 tons of leaking German mustard gas bombs stored beneath its weathered decks to be used by CWS experts for chemical analysis and testing—is estimated by Brig. Gen. E. F. Bullene, Commanding General of the Chemical Warfare Center, Edgewood Arsenal, Md., to take approximately twenty days.

Six of Edgewood Arsenal's Guard and Security men, who boarded the crewless vessel off Norfolk, Virginia, and who were aboard her when she anchored in the Bush River, are: 1st Lt. Alexander M. Nelson, in charge; S/Sgt. Roy T. Markley, S/Sgt. Emil F. Kobylecki, Sgt. Lee Corbin, Cpl. Robert S. Ewing, and Pfc. J. W. Cummings.

Five tiny kittens, apparently roaming all over the so-called Death Ship for many days—certainly since Charleston, S. C.—were found absolutely unharmed.

The 559th TC Port Company — an all-colored company — well-trained in the handling of toxic agents—Lt. Col. Garland M. White in command, are working in three four-hour shifts a day unloading the cargo.

Naval Communications Service—Applications are desired for a one-year post-graduate course in applied communications for a class convening in January 1947. Eligible are line officers commissioned Ensign 6 June 1940 to 19 June 1942 inclusive and transferred line officers of corresponding dates of precedence. Training in applied communications is in general of an operational nature but requires a sound educational background. Applicants should have successfully completed courses in mathematics through quadratics as a minimum and have had at least one year of sea duty and have had sufficient communications duty to evidence suitability for further communications training. Signed agreements not to resign during the curriculum and to serve three years in the naval service after completion of their studies must be submitted with applications. Applications should be submitted via official channels to reach the Bureau of Naval Personnel prior to 15 October.

Medical Department—A general decrease in disease rates among occupation forces of Japan, and reduction in admissions to hospitals generally since December of 1945 was reported at a meeting of all hospital commanders, corps and base surgeons, held in the office of the Eighth Army Surgeon, at Yokohama recently. The meeting was attended by Brig. Gen. James A. Bethel, replacing Brig. Gen. Joseph R. Martin as Chief Surgeon of AFPAC. It was called by Col. P. L. Cook, Eighth Army Surgeon, to discuss administration and operation of hospitals, evacuation of patients, and assignment of personnel, particularly medical officers.

Finance Department—Maj. Gen. William H. Kasten, Chief of Finance, U. S. Army, returned to Washington from an inspection trip to Finance offices, U. S. Army, on the West coast.

Maj. Charles D. Waldecker, Assistant Executive Officer, OCF; Maj. John L. Ward, Military Personnel Branch, OCF; Capt. E. G. Shewbridge, Audit Division, OCF; Maj. Gerald F. True, Air Finance Office, Hq. AAF, and Lt. Col. Cecil G. Gealta, Disbursing Officer, Bolling Field, Washington, D. C., received Regular Army appointments last week.

Lt. Col. Milton G. Winsor and Maj. John M. Lydick, both former disbursing officers in the ETO, have been assigned to duty in the Finance Office, U. S. Army, Washington, D. C., under Col. Carl Witcher. Effective 6 September, this Finance Office, U. S. Army, will be moved from 801 Channing Place, N. E., to Temporary Building "B", Second and Q Sts., S. W., Washington, D. C.

Lt. Col. Joseph H. Wiechmann has been transferred from the Military Personnel Branch, OCF, to the Command and Staff College, Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas. Prior to his departure, Colonel Wiechmann was awarded the Army Commendation Ribbon. He has been succeeded by Lt. Col. Samuel E. Burns who formerly served in both Europe and the Pacific.

Lt. Col. George E. Gross returned to duty from a short period of hospitalization at Ft. Belvoir, Va., and has been assigned to the Military Pay Branch of the Receipts and Disbursements Division, OCF.

Navy Administrative Officers—The Assistant Secretary of the Navy's Material Division desires applications from line officers USN, USN(T) and USNR who have applied or been accepted for transfer to the Regular Navy of the ranks Lieutenant (junior grade) through Commander for duty in offices of the Material Division in Washington and major cities of the United States for inspection, office or personnel administration and material planning scheduling and control. Officers selected will take an indoctrination course at Alameda, Calif., before duty assignment. Class will convene 21 October and end 20 December.

Quartermaster Corps—The Quartermaster Corps has under test a new Army trench coat designed to replace the Army overcoat and largely replace the raincoat for officers' and enlisted men's wear. The new coat is water repellent and wind-resistant, has removable lining and includes attachments that may be used in wet weather to keep the trouser legs dry. It has an inner shell of 5 ounce poplin and an outer shell of 9 ounce sateen. The liner is of 21.5 ounce napped wool which is also used for lining the sleeves.

The leg protectors, made of sateen, may be folded up and buttoned inside the coat when not in use. For wet-weather wear the leg protectors are secured about the legs with slide fasteners.

The new trench coat with the wool lining weighs approximately 7½ pounds. Without the liner it weighs about 5 pounds, making it suitable for use as a raincoat.

Military Police—The 798th MP Battalion is home again at Ft. Benjamin Harrison. Five hundred and fourteen strong, the unit of military police moved into quarters at the fort 23 Aug., arriving from Camp Atterbury which has been the battalion's headquarters since it left Ft. Harrison, in March, 1945.

The MP unit, which has an authorized strength of 619, was organized at the fort in June, 1942, and operated from there until its transfer to Atterbury. Commanded by Lt. Col. G. Warner Nicholas, FA, its present strength is 492 enlisted men, 21 officers and one warrant officer, composing four line companies, a medical and a headquarters detachment.

Transferees to Regular Navy—Naval Reserve and temporary USN officers transferring to the Regular Navy have been enjoined to report non-receipt of Mustering Out pay to which they are entitled. In order to avoid further confusion and delay in payment, Commanding Officers of all naval activities are now authorized to receive applications for Mustering Out payments from personnel released and apportioned in the Regular Navy after 1 February 1945, and to direct payment by local disbursing officer.

Ordnance Department—Col. Joseph M. Colby was presented with the Oak Leaf Cluster to the Legion of Merit on 20 Aug. by his Commanding Officer, Col. Burton O. Lewis, at the offices of the Detroit Arsenal, Center Line, Michigan. Colonel Colby received this award for engineering work on an Army heavy tank, T32, and for meritorious service as chief of key divisions of the Detroit Arsenal during World War II. Colonel Colby, a native of Lake Mills, Iowa, was graduated from the United States Military Academy, 13 June 1929.

Office of Naval Research—Rear Admiral Luis de Florez, USNR, Assistant Chief of Naval Research, plans to leave the Navy within the next few weeks to return to his pre-war activities as an inventor. He holds several patents for safety devices in the oil refining and cracking field.

His successor has not yet been named, but it is expected that it will be a Naval aviator not now on duty in the Navy Department, who would be groomed as successor to Vice Admiral H. G. Bowen, USN, Chief of Naval Research, who will soon reach the statutory age limit of 64.

Admiral de Florez, when he appeared before the House Appropriations Committee last spring to support requests for appropriations for Navy research, was acknowledged by the committee as a "genius" in his field.

2nd Army Leadership School

Camp Campbell, Ky.—The first class of the 2nd Army Officers' Leadership School was graduated Saturday, 3 Aug. with 48 officers receiving diplomas.

Col. Malcolm R. Kammerer, Commanding Officer of the 5th Division's 11th Infantry Regiment, was the commencement speaker.

1st Lt. Ray F. Wilkie of the 705th Ordnance Company, 5th Division, was presented a gift for being the honor student of the class. Col. Tom R. Stoughton, 5th Division Chief of Staff, made the presentation.

Lt. Gen. Smith Retires

Lt. Gen. Holland M. Smith, USMC, retired from active duty 7 Aug. 1946, after 40 years' service including both World Wars.

Holder of the Distinguished Service Medal with three gold stars in lieu of subsequent DSM's the man who led Marines through the Gilberts, Marshalls, Marianas, and Iwo Jima, prior to retirement was Commanding General, Marine Training and Replacement Command, San Diego.

To General Smith the Pacific engagements were a matter of practicing what he had long preached as one of the Marine Corps' top amphibious experts. He trained several Army units in preparation for the North African invasion as well as the landings at Kiska and Attu.

SEOUL, KOREA

13 Aug. 1946

The Bataan-famous 31st Infantry Regiment today observed Organization Day in Seoul marking the thirtieth anniversary of its formation in the Philippines in 1916.

In a review parade this morning, messages of congratulation from General of the Army Douglas MacArthur and Lt. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger, Eighth Army Commanding General, were read to the Seventh Division unit by Maj. Gen. Andrew D. Bruce, Hourglass Division commander.

Addressing the "Polar Bear" men from the reviewing stand after the parade were Lt. Gen. John R. Dodge, XXIV Corps Commander; Maj. Gen. A. V. Arnold, Chief Commissioner of the American Delegation to the U. S.-Soviet Joint Commission, and Maj. Gen. Archer Lerch, Military Governor of Korea. General Lerch was a company commander in the 31st during Organization Day ceremonies in Manila in 1921. Later he also served as a battalion commander in the regiment. Introducing the speakers was the present regimental commander, Col. Stephen S. Hamilton.

Activated 13 Aug. 1916, in the Philippine Islands, the 31st Infantry has never served in the continental United States. During World War I it was sent to Siberia where the unit spent two years keeping the Trans-Siberian Railroad in operation. From this tour of duty it secured its "Polar Bear" nickname.

In 1932 the 31st served in Shanghai guarding the International Settlement there during Chinese-Japanese conflicts. In 1941 it was the nucleus of American forces at the Lingayen beachhead opposing the overwhelming Japanese Army. On Bataan the "Polar Bear" Regiment fought until it was practically annihilated, with many of its survivors taking part in the Death March.

Last January the 31st Infantry was reborn as a unit of the Seventh Division in Korea, maintaining the regiment's tradition of service in the Orient.

To complete Organization Day celebrations, the men of the 31st competed in a Regimental Track and Field Meet at the "Polar Bear" parade grounds. —0—

Interservice Golf

Augusta, Ga.—Oliver General Hospital here has been selected as the site for the first Interservice Golf Tournament. The Special Services Division of the War Department—upon the recommendation of the Commanding General, Seventh Army—has authorized the selection of the Augusta medical installation for the initial holding of the event.

Participants will include the leading players of the Army, Navy, Marines and Air Corps and the tourney will be staged prior to the Masters Tournament ordinarily held during the first week in April. The Interservice champion, through special arrangements made by Robert T. Jones, Jr., president of the Augusta National, will be eligible for competition in the Masters.

Obituary

GENERAL of the Armies of the United States John J. Pershing joined with the Nation this week in mourning the death of Associate Justice of the Supreme Court James Clark McReynolds at Walter Reed Hospital on 24 August. He spoke of the high esteem in which he held the distinguished Jurist, and his admiration for the ardent patriotism and devotion to the Republic as established by the Constitution, which were expressed consistently during the Justice's service as Attorney General in the Wilson Administration and throughout the period of 26 years he was active as a member of the Supreme Court.

Justice McReynolds was anathema to the New Deal because he regarded its policies as ruinous of our national structure since they violated and infringed the rights of the States, the indestructibility of which he held to be essential to the maintenance of an indestructible Union, and also because they would centralize power in the Federal Government far beyond the intent and purposes of the Fathers of the Constitution. Because of his integrity and fundamental honesty, he could not tolerate the repudiation of our promise to pay bonds in gold, and he declared that the loss of reputation for honorable dealing involved in this action would bring us unending humiliation and result in legal and moral chaos which he forecasted would be appalling. It was in connection with this dissent from the majority decision that he stated it was not too much to say the Constitution was gone. A firm believer in National Defense, both for our own protection and that foreign nations would listen to our voice, he was a consistent advocate of proper preparedness. As a subscriber to the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL he kept in intimate touch with military, naval and air affairs, and as the writer of this obituary is able to report he frequently spoke approvingly of the policies editorially expressed by this publication. Because of his numerous dissents from the conservative, and criticized by it for strangely departing from the attitude of his younger days when he was looked upon as a liberal, and, by some, as a radical. Yet the fact is there was no change; he was a progressive within the Constitution, a liberal of the school of President Theodore Roosevelt to whom he was devoted, and from the principles of which he never deviated. Chief Justice Hughes described him correctly when he said that Justice McReynolds was forthright and independent, and it is to be added that in his judgments, reached only after the most thorough investigation and careful consideration, he was inflexible. In his personal relations he was affable, kindly and generous, and he held his friends to him with bands of steel. History will record him as one of the great Jurists of the Supreme Court, an upholder of human and property rights, the latter because unless they be respected the former would be destroyed, and a champion of the weak and poor in whose protection and assistance he labored for their welfare and for that of the country. The Justice was buried on Thursday in the cemetery at Elkton, Kentucky, alongside of his parents and sister. He is survived by a brother, Dr. Robert P. McReynolds, of Los Angeles, a nephew, Lt. Colonel James O. McReynolds, recently separated from the Army, and his wife, who was a daughter of Fleet Admiral King, another nephew Robert C. McReynolds and a niece Mrs. Alice C. Harbach.

Col. John W. Watts, MC, USA-Ret., died suddenly 19 Aug. 1946 at his home in Clearwater, Fla., following a heart attack.

Col. Watts served in France with the Rainbow Division in World War I and with the Fourth Service Command in Atlanta during World War II.

He was born in Montgomery, Ala., the son of the late Thomas H. Watts and Johnness Eddings Watts and was a grandson of Thomas Hill Watts, governor of Alabama during the Civil War.

He is survived by his widow, Estella Pahl Watts and by one daughter Johnness. Interment at Arlington National Cemetery 23 August.

Col. Goodwin Compton, 69, USA-Ret., who died Wednesday, 21 August, at his home in Atlanta, was buried 26 August at Arlington National Cemetery.

A native of Mississippi, Col. Compton, a Signal Corps officer, was commissioned a Second Lieutenant in 1901 after service in the Spanish-American War. During the First World War he served as a Lt. Col. of Infantry. He transferred to the Signal Corps in 1923 and was retired in 1941. He held the Silver Star and the Purple Heart with Oak Leaf Cluster.

Col. Compton is survived by his widow.

Miss Mary Patten, sister of Mrs. Edythe Corbin, widow of Maj. Gen. Henry C. Corbin, formerly The Adjutant General of the Army, died at her home in Washington, D. C. 29 August 1946.

Miss Patten was one of the famous and beautiful five "Patten Sisters" whose brilliant social functions highlighted Washington life of a generation ago. Another of the sisters, Miss Nellie Patten, died only a month ago, leaving Mrs. Corbin as the lone survivor of the family. Maj. Gen. Clifford L. Corbin, Assistant to the Quartermaster General, is a nephew.

Like the other sisters, Miss Mary Patten was educated in Paris. The family moved to Washington from the west in the 1890's. Their home on Massachusetts became the center of a brilliant social life which included foreign as well as American diplomats, clergymen and statesmen. General John J. Pershing, General of the Armies of the United States, is a close friend of the family.

Requiem mass will be sung today, 31 August, in St. Matthew's Cathedral. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

College for USN Transferees

(c) Completion of a year-course in college Physics.

(d) Completion of other general educational courses elected by the student officer and approved by the college authorities and the Professor of Naval Science and Tactics who is the Commanding Officer of the NROTC Unit.

Eventually, all line officer transferees will attend the Navy's General Line School, a course open in the past for officers with about seven years service. Consistent with the needs of the service, line officer transferees will also attend as their length of service approximates this requirement.

The General Line School is now a one-year course, held at the Naval War College in Newport, R. I.

When ordered to the NROTC colleges, officers will be assigned to schools nearest their homes, and will attend successive sessions including Summer sessions until their Navy education is completed. Of the 52 NROTC colleges, only 23 have airfields nearby, and assignment of naval aviators will be restricted to those institutions.

All officers will receive a minimum of five semesters, or seven quarters, of college. If they have already completed four semesters, as in the case of V-5 graduates, they will be given two more. If they have completed any amount of college under four semesters or six quarters, they will be given enough college to bring their total credits to five semesters or seven quarters.

This educational program is a part of the over-all recommendations of the Holloway Plan for the peacetime education of naval officers, which is named after Rear Admiral James L. Holloway, Jr., USN, Assistant Chief of Naval Personnel, senior member of a board composed of college presidents and Naval officers. Other features of the Holloway Plan were recently incorporated in Public Law 729, known by the Navy as the "Holloway Bill," which provides for the pre-commissioning training of Midshipmen.

USS Pope Wins PUC

The former USS Pope, a destroyer, has been awarded the Presidential Unit Citation for outstanding action in the Java Sea campaign from 23 Jan. to 1 March 1942. After inflicting torpedo and gunfire damage to enemy forces, the Pope was sunk by Japanese cruiser-based planes on 1 March 1942. Her Commanding Officer at the time was Comdr. (then Lt.) Welford C. Blinn, USN.

29th Inf. Div. to Meet

The 29th Infantry Division Association will hold its first post-war convention 31 Aug. to 2 Sept., at the Lord Baltimore Hotel, Baltimore, Md. The three day meeting marks the 28th convention to be held since the end of the first World War.

Largest Navy Airplane

Work on the Lockheed Constitution, the Navy's newest and largest transport aircraft, is essentially completed, and the 168-passenger plane will make its maiden flight on or about 20 September, according to Vice Admiral Arthur W. Radford, Deputy Chief of Naval Operations for Air.

The 92-ton, four-engine monoplane is now undergoing a final series of ground checks, engine run-ups, taxi tests, and the installation of special test equipment for its first flight. On completion of an exhaustive test program, it will be assigned to the Naval Air Transport Service on trans-Pacific routes.

The Constitution has a range of more than 5,000 miles. It will carry a load of more than 69,000 pounds and its top speed is over 300 miles an hour. The stall-speed of 80 miles an hour allows the craft to come to a complete stop after a landing run of 2300 feet, and reversible pitch propellers on the inboard engines can further reduce this distance. Take-off can be made after a run of 2350 feet.

The plane will operate with a crew of seven or nine, depending upon passenger or cargo loading. In addition to seven doors and 59 windows, there are 13 emergency exits.

USCG Port Regulations

As a convenience to agencies of the State and Justice Departments, the Coast Guard has re-invoked wartime regulations under which the movements of foreign merchantmen in U. S. waters will be known at all times.

The regulations require each vessel of foreign flag arriving or scheduled to arrive at a United States port to notify a Captain of the Post the berth to which it will proceed, and to adhere to original plans except in emergency, which also must be reported.

Coast Guard Headquarters stated that the move was made as a usual matter of co-operation with other departments. Since the end of hostilities, when these wartime restrictions were lifted, naturalization, immigration and customs officials have been handicapped in their work by a lack of information on ships' locations.

The Coast Guard reported that the return to wartime procedure was ordered after two months of consideration at Headquarters, following requests for assistance from the other government agencies.

Gen. Huebner to USFET

Maj. Gen. Clarence R. Huebner, former G-3, AGF, has arrived in Frankfort, Germany, and is being temporarily assigned as a Deputy Chief of Staff, USFET, it has been announced by Headquarters, USFET.

After a trip through the United States Zone, General Huebner will be named Chief of Staff, in which position he will relieve Maj. Gen. Harold R. Bull, who will return to the United States for an unannounced assignment.

Reserve Medical Commissions

Reserve commissions as first lieutenants are available for 83 prospective 1947 medical school graduates who desire internships in Army hospitals, Maj. Gen. Norman T. Kirk, The Surgeon General has announced.

The commissions represent a departure from former Army practice when interns were classified as civilian employees and received about $1,000 annually while completing their fifth or clinical year of study.

In notifying deans of accredited medical schools of the plan, General Kirk asked that they recommend men not only desirable as interns but who will ultimately develop as Regular Army medical officers.

Decelerate Heavy Para-Loads

Successfully completing a study for a deceleration process to eliminate damage to heavy para-crates, Jeeps, and ordnance equipment dropped by parachute to support airborne forces, the Army Air Forces announced this week the use of "sand bullets" and an explosive charge to bring the heavy equipment almost to a complete stop just before hitting the ground.

The sand bullets are used in a U-shaped tube with the container of sand in each end and an explosive charge in the bent portion. In explaining the theory of its deceleration power, AAF engineers cited the terrific recoil of older-type rifles, in which a small bullet with tremendous velocity kicked back the heavy gun in the opposite direction. The actual theory of the sand bullet is that the bullet's velocity (speed) times its weight equals the velocity of descending load times its weight.

AAF engineers arranged to have the charge exploded in the "U" tube several feet above the ground, the sand bullets shooting downward, with the strong recoil kicking upward against the load. This recoil almost stopped the heaviest loads, and the rest of the fall was like "falling off a chair."

AAF engineers pointed out that the heaviest-laden paratrooper could decelerate his fall just before hitting the ground by an application of a sand bullet tube weighing only 20 pounds. This would be sufficient to decelerate a combined weight of the paratrooper and his equipment of at least 300 pounds, and would help eliminate dropping injuries.

Another equally effective decelerating device developed by the AAF ordnance engineers is the use of a "bare charge" unit, which places a small explosive charge between the heavy load and the parachute. Working on the principle of the shock-wave, the charge is set off several feet from the ground, and the resultant shock-wave of the blast hits the interior of the inflated parachute, causing a tremendous upward pressure. The weight of the load will, of course, determine the size of the charge used.

In recent tests at Wright Field, Ohio, the "bare charge" proved extremely effective. Parachutes were tied to strong stakes driven into the ground, and allowed to inflate with the wind. When the charge was exploded, the resultant force against the parachute pulled the stakes from the ground.

FINANCE MERCHANT MARINE*Financial Digest

A series of controls over building materials, including a review of priorities previously awarded the Army and Navy, were ordered by Housing Expediter Wilson Wyatt 28 August to make more lumber available for veterans housing.

The Civilian Production Administration will review priorities used by the Army and Navy for construction of bases and barracks overseas and military housing in the United States with a view toward postponing construction or dividing procurement of building materials among several cities. The services will then be limited to priorities no higher than those for civilian housing.

Reconversion Director John R. Steelman this week called on eight government agencies and the railroads to "take prompt and vigorous action" to meet a threatening transportation crisis caused by an inadequacy of freight cars in the face of freight movements greater than the wartime peak.

His seven-point program calls for a greater use of coastal and intercoastal shipping, a speed-up in the turn-around time of freight cars now in use, and orders for more cars to be built next year. He warned that between 50,000 and 75,000 carloads of freight will back up weekly unless forceful action is taken now.

The War and Navy Departments were not among the eight Government agencies addressed by Mr. Steelman in his order for emergency measures. Both services have ordered that freight cars should be unloaded as quickly as possible.

New livestock ceilings, above 30 June levels but below present prices, will become effective tomorrow, 1 September. They were ordered late in the week by Secretary of Agriculture Anderson over the protests of the OPA, which had held out for prices at the 30 June level.

It was estimated that retail prices will be higher than 30 June prices by 5 and a half cents a pound on beef, and two and a half cents a pound on pork, on the average. The RFC announced that subsidies will be reinstated on cattle, calves and hogs slaughtered on and after 1 Sept. on the same terms as those which lapsed 30 June.

The price issue was settled following a dispute in which the OPA favored prices which it felt the average consumer could pay, and the Agriculture Department wished to raise them enough to offer an incentive to cattle raisers.

In response to a statement by OPA Administrator Paul Porter that price ceilings should be restored on dairy products, Chairman Roy L. Thompson of the Price Decontrol Board issued a reminder that the Decontrol Board is the only agency which can prescribe such action, and that "statements from any other source whatsoever are merely suppositions or speculation and should be treated as such."

Letters to the Editor*Officers Leave Problem*Editor, ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL:

No one begrudges the enlisted man getting terminal leave pay but why should an officer lose money because of it? Under the plan reported in the newspapers, leave in excess of 60 days will be paid for immediately. Computations below indicate amount I will lose if I stay on active duty beyond 1 September 1946. (Whether I leave or remain I would be promoted to Lt. Col. upon relief from active duty). (Amounts below are approximate).

If I leave active duty subsequent to 1 September. Accumulated leave—112 days as of 1 September. (No leave on leave for 52 days of the 112 because of immediate payment).

Total—112 days.

For sake of discussion, disregard 60 days which will be paid on terminal leave.

52 days (to be paid now).

$934.70 (my pay and allowances based on major's income for 52 days).

Plus $116.84 (based on 12½% interest for 5-year war bonds).

$1,051.54 total for 52 days.

If I leave active duty prior to 1 September.

Total—112 days plus 8 days leave on leave or 120 days. Total—120 days.

For sake of discussion, disregard 60 days which will be paid on terminal leave.

60 days (compared to 52 days above).

$1,223.69 (my terminal leave pay and allowances based on Lt. Col.'s income for 60 days).

Thus my net loss amounts to $1,223.69 less $1,051.54, or $172.15. Should an officer remaining on active duty get less terminal leave pay than an officer who is leaving active duty immediately?

Major, AGD*Opportunity for Commissions*Editor, ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL:

I am writing in hopes that through the medium of your Journal, the regular Army enlisted man may be offered a fairer deal to make more acceptable a regular Army commission.

A specific example will present a clearer picture, so I am using myself as the example:

My age: 34 years.

Military service: 12½ years enlisted, 4½ years commissioned.

Permanent rank: M. Sgt. regular Army.

Temporary rank: Major ORC.

Efficiency rating EM: excellent.

Efficiency index officer: 48.3.

If I should apply for a regular Army commission and be fortunate enough to be accepted, my rank would be 1st Lt. counting nine years' constructive service, losing eight years' actual service, and receiving no credit as far as rank is concerned, for enlisted time. On the other hand, stating an actual case, an officer with but 4½ years' previous military experience, age 33, applies for a regular Army commission. He is accepted as a captain, and with the possibility of the time in grade necessary for promotion to major to be reduced to fifteen years, he will, in one year's time, be a permanent Major RA.

From the above example, you can readily see that the regular Army GI is not too enthused over applying for a regular commission when the War Department does not take into consideration and give credit for his actual service and experience.

Army Leadership

Special Non-Commissioned Officers Class No. 2 at the Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga., has sent the following letter of appreciation and commendation to Brig. Gen. Whitfield P. Shepard, The Assistant Commandant, The Infantry School:

1. We the undersigned members of the Special Non-Commissioned Officers Class No. 2 are so full of appreciation for the fine leadership which the officers listed below have given us and for the splendid example that they have set for us as soldiers to follow that we wish to go on record in this way in expressing our appreciation.

Col. Theodore Andrews
Col. William O. Blandford
Col. Charles U. Knab

Capt. William H. Wikoff
Lt. Norman L. Engard

2. We are fully aware of the current discussions in the press about the so-called "brass" in the Army which would lead the American public to believe that the rank and file of Army officers are hard-boiled and cold-hearted toward enlisted men. We feel that if the American public at large were aware of the type of leadership that we soldiers have enjoyed here at Fort Benning under the guidance of the officers listed that even the critics would change their attitude as reflected in part of the press.

The officers listed have not only been excellent instructors but they have demonstrated a sincere and intense interest in our welfare from every point of view. Thus, setting a lofty example worthy of emulation by us as non-commissioned officers who in turn must prove our value as such in the hearts of the privates.

4. It is hoped that the Commandant of The Infantry School will make known to these officers the contents of this letter as a humble and sincere expression of the appreciation of the signers of this letter.

Retain Third Division

The 3d Infantry Division, which was scheduled to sail from Bremerhaven Germany, on 28 Aug. for home, will be retained in active service and will absorb the personnel of the 5th Infantry Division, which is being inactivated. It was announced this week by General Jacob L. Devers, Commanding General, Army Ground Forces.

The decision to retain the 3d in service and inactivate the 5th was a most difficult one, General Devers explained, because both are Regular Army units and each had an illustrious record in World War I and II. It was necessary to inactivate one of them, he added, because of budgetary and personnel limitations.

Only a handful of officers and men of the 3d—approximately 425—is scheduled to arrive in New York next week. The others who served in this redoubtable organization during its campaigns have been discharged, separated or transferred. This cadre will proceed immediately to Camp Campbell, Ky., to participate in a ceremony in which the 5th's personnel will transfer their allegiance to the 3d. Immediately after the ceremony those of the cadre entitled to leaves and furloughs will be sent out.

The ceremony at Camp Campbell, which will be the permanent home station for the 3d, will consist, in part, of a review and a mass switching of shoulder patches—the removal of the red diamond of the 5th and its replacement by the diagonal blue and white stripes of the 3d's square insignia. As many former commanding generals of the two divisions as can be assembled will witness the review.

Among the generals who led the 3d in action were Lt. Gen. Lucian K. Truscott, Jr., and Major Generals John P. Lucas and John W. ("Iron Mike") O'Daniel. The 5th's combat leaders were Major Generals Cortlandt Parker, Stafford LeR. Irwin, and Albert E. Brown. Maj. Gen. Jens A. Doe, who commanded the 41st Division in the Pacific during the war and who now commands the 5th, will assume command of the 3d.

The 3d Division, which gained for itself the name of "The Rock of the Marne" for its stand at Chateau-Thierry in July, 1918, was one of the only three Regular Army Divisions in the United States Army prior to the outbreak of World War II in September, 1939. It participated in the North African landings of November, 1942, and went on to fight in Sicily, Italy, France and Germany. During its eight campaigns it had approximately 33,500 casualties.

At Camp Campbell the 3d Division will be assigned to Army Ground Forces and further assigned to the Second Army, which controls the area in which Camp Campbell is situated.

Command Cadet Regiments

West Point, N. Y.—For the first time in the history of the U. S. Military Academy brothers have been assigned to command the two cadet regiments at West Point. Cadets Frank C. and Philip T. Boerger will command the First and Second Cadet Regiments respectively, Brig. Gen. G. J. Higgins, Commandant of Cadets, announced.

The brothers, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Boerger of 505 South Sixth Street, Milbank, S. D. have had almost exactly parallel careers to date. Both were in the U. S. Army for two years and Philip for 15 months, from which they were appointed to the Military Academy. Both participated in "C" Squad (Plebe) football and basketball and were members of the Cadet Chapel Choir. Prior to admittance to the Military Academy the brothers attended the University of Minnesota and Amherst College. Frank Boerger is now Editor of the "Pioneer," Cadet undergraduate magazine. While attending Milbank High School Philip won two letters in football and three in basketball.

Cadet William J. Schuder of Glenolden, Pa., has been appointed Cadet First Captain and Brigade Commander. Cadet Schuder, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond D. Schuder of 200 E. Glenolden Avenue is a member of the first, or senior class and was appointed to the Military Academy from the U. S. Army, in which he served two years. During his career at West Point, Schuder has been a member of the soccer and golf teams. Prior to joining the Army in 1941 he attended Temple University at Philadelphia, Pa., for two years. He succeeds Cadet First Captain A. A. Jordan, who graduated last June, to the highest post in the Corps of Cadets.

Continue Navy Cruises

On completion of U. S. Naval Academy Summer cruises late this month, the USS Randolph, USS Washington, and USS North Carolina will embark 110 high school science scholars for a short cruise on the Atlantic. The cruise will be sponsored by the Office of Naval Research.

The students were selected by Boards of Education in Providence, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, New York City and Washington. All will gather in Washington 29 September for a trip to Annapolis, where they will be greeted by Vice Admiral Aubrey W. Fitch, superintendent of the Naval Academy, and will start their cruise.

The Randolph will take the high school boys to sea, and demonstrate the take-off and landing of carrier planes. On completion of this exercise, the Randolph will return the students to Hampton Roads, where the group will be divided and placed aboard the Washington and North Carolina to complete their five-day jaunt.

Haneda Air Field Opens

HQ Eighth Army, Yokohama—Haneda Air Port, which when completed several months from now will rank as the main transport terminal in Japan and Korea, opened its main 7,000-foot paved runway to Army transports on 14 Aug.

The airfield, located on Tokyo Bay, halfway between Tokyo and Yokohama, was opened at an impressive military ceremony in which 8th Army commander, Lt. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger and other high ranking officers participated.

General Eichelberger, accompanied by Maj. Gen. Clovis E. Byers, Eighth Army chief of staff, Maj. Gen. Clements McMullen, chief of staff, PACUSA, Maj. Gen. P. J. Mueller, chief of staff, GHQ and Maj. Gen. H. J. Casey, chief engineer, AFPAF, assembled before the reviewing stand.

Standing in formation for inspection by General Eichelberger were the five 8th Army Engineers units responsible for the construction work. They were the 584th Engineer Construction Group, command unit; the 808th and the 836th Engineer Aviation Battalions, and the 217th and 768th engineer dump truck companies.

Brig. Gen. I. L. Farmer, commanding general of the West Pacific Wing, ATC, piloted the C-54 christening plane which dropped onto the airstrip, discharging 18 enlisted men who with nine officers, were awarded army commendation ribbons by General Eichelberger for outstanding work in connection with the construction of the airport.

Construction of the airfield was under the direction of 8th Army Engineer, Col. D. M. Dunne, and under the direct supervision of Lt. Col. E. R. Sherbaum, Tokyo area engineer.

Gen. Hinds to Direct Matches

The War Department announced 5 Aug. the appointment of seven top officials, headed by Brig. Gen. Sidney R. Hinds, to direct the firing of the 44-year-old National Rifle and Pistol Championships at Camp Perry, Ohio, 31 Aug. through 8 Sept. The event is being revived this year after a four-year wartime layoff.

General Hinds, commanding officer of the 41st Infantry Regiment of the Second Armored Division, has been named as Executive Officer of the nine-day shooting matches which will attract nearly two thousand of the nation's finest marksmen.

Appointed, under General Hinds, as Range Director and Director of the Small Arms Training School which traditionally precedes the War Department-sponsored competitions is Col. Harland C. Griswold, Cav., USA, Professor of Military Science and Tactics at the University of Maryland for many years. Statistical Director over both the rifle and pistol activities will be Lt. Col. E. B. Crossman, long associated with the Fort Benning, Ga., Infantry School.

Serving under Colonel Griswold as Chief Range Officer of Small Bore Rifle activity will be Lt. Col. Thomas H. Com-pere, ORC; Col. W. A. Hedden, USA-Ret., will serve as Chief Range Officer on the pistol ranges. Colonel Crossman's staff will be headed by Maj. Wallace H. Davis, ORC, in charge of the rifle statistical office; and Lt. Col. Ernest Kalsow, ORC, will direct pistol statistics.

Competition in this first postwar revival of the historic Camp Perry program, held annually with the cooperation of the National Rifle Association, will be confined to pistol and small bore (.22 caliber) rifle.

Col. Grose Inactivated

Credited with having planned and established in the War Department the World War II Army Exchange service, "the largest retail business in the world," and awarded the Distinguished Service Cross, two Silver Stars, and the Combat Infantryman's Badge for his battle efficiency during World War II, Colonel J. E. Grose, of the Regular Army, has been placed on the retired list on account of disability incident to the service.

Enlisting in the Army at the outbreak of the first World War, Col. Grose attained the commissioned rank of Captain of Infantry, having served with the 58th Infantry of the 4th Division throughout that war, part of his service having been with the Army of Occupation in Germany. During his service until the outbreak of World War II, Col. Grose attended the Infantry School as student and instructor, and was stationed at various posts in the United States, including the War College and the Headquarters of the Third Corps Area.

At the beginning of the present war, Col. Grose was assigned to the 77th Infantry Division at Camp Jackson, S. C., and then to the XI Corps at Chicago. In July 1942, he was ordered to the Southwest Pacific with the First Corps where he served through the Burma and Buna campaigns, and the New Guinea and Biak Island campaigns.

Changes in NSLI

Provisions of Public Law 589-79th Congress, approved by President Truman 1 August, which further amends the National Service Life Insurance Act of 1940, are listed, in part, in Alnav 422:

(1) Privilege of conversion to 20-year endowment, endowment at age 60 and endowment at age 65.

(2) Removes restriction on choice of beneficiary. Insured may now designate as beneficiary any person or persons, firm, corporation or legal entity (including his estate either individually or as trustee).

(3) Authorizes four optional modes of settlement:

(a) In one sum;

(b) In equal monthly installments of from 36 to 240 in number in multiples of 12;

(c) In equal monthly installments for 120 months certain with such payments continuing during the remaining lifetime of the first beneficiary;

(d) As a refund life income in monthly installments payable for such period certain as may be required in order that the sum of the installments certain shall equal the face value of the contract less any indebtedness, with such payments continuing throughout the lifetime of the first beneficiary.

(4) New total disability income provision authorizes a provision granting benefits to the insured on account of continuous total disability for six or more months upon application, compliance with health requirements and payment of an extra premium. Such benefits are paid in the amount of five dollars per month for each $1,000 of insurance and do not deplete the face value of the policy.

Alnav 422 continues:

Naval activities will be advised of rates on endowment plans and total disability provisions upon receipt from Veterans Administration, also as to availability of Veterans Administration forms. Naval and Marine Corps personnel desiring to make immediate application for any of the above described benefits are advised to apply by means of letter application signed by the insured and forwarded to the Veterans Administration, Washington 25, D. C. Full identification as follows should be included in the application: first, middle and last name (printed), service number, insurance certificate number or numbers, if known; mailing address. It is recommended that copy of such application be filed with Service Record. Complete instructions and information will be promulgated through official channels.

Air Guard Units

Establishment of a strong, state-controlled Air National Guard designed to supplement the regular Army Air Forces in the event of an emergency was nearer completion this week as AAF Headquarters announced that all of the 48 states, the District of Columbia, Hawaii and Puerto Rico had accepted their allotment of Air National Guard units.

Activation of these units is already well underway in 26 states, the District of Columbia and Hawaii. The remaining 22 states and Puerto Rico will begin activation of units in the immediate future, many having been temporarily delayed pending availability of adequate airfield and flying facilities.

Wyoming, Colorado, Mississippi, Maryland, Delaware, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Georgia, Missouri, Arkansas, Vermont and the District of Columbia have completed initial recruiting and have requested or received Federal inspection and recognition. First unit to be Federally recognized was the 57th Wing Headquarters based at St. Louis, Missouri.

The Nation's "Minutemen of the Air," when completely organized, will consist of 12 wings, 24 fighter groups, three light bombardment groups, 12 aircraft control and warning groups and numerous supporting units including air service groups and weather detachments. The flying groups will comprise 72 fighter squadrons and 12 light bombardment squadrons. Manning these units will be 3,000 Air National Guard pilots, 4,900 non-rated officers and 50,000 enlisted men.

Units will be based at 79 AAF and civil airfields throughout the country. To these units the AAF has allocated 2,664 aircraft, including North American P-51 Mustangs, Republic P-47 Thunderbolts and Douglas A-26 Invaders at no cost to the states. A number of the fighter squadrons will be reequipped with jet propelled fighters as the program gets underway.

Industrial College

The Industrial College of the Armed Forces has announced that registration of Army officers for the 1946-47 term has been completed. A total of approximately 65 officers signed the roster. The Navy contingent, bringing the total number of student-officers to nearly a hundred, will have registered before the end of the month. These senior officers, most of whom have had operational experience during the war, will study the problems of economic and industrial mobilization as they affect the armed forces in a national emergency.

The Industrial College of the Armed Forces has recently moved from The Pentagon to the grounds of the War College. The school term begins on September third and inaugurates the first full course given since the beginning of World War II. The Industrial College is now located next to the National War College. During the coming academic year, many prominent authorities will discuss subjects vital to national security before the National War College and the Industrial College. The proximity of these schools enables the students of both to hear lectures given at either College.

Acceptance of Gifts

The War Department this week issued changes in AR 600-10 tightening the restrictions against the acceptance of gifts by officer personnel or members of their family. Now falling within the prohibition is the following:

"Acceptance by an officer, or, with the approval of the officer, by a member of his immediate family or a substantial loan or gift or any emolument from a person or firm with whom it is the officer's duty as an agent of the Government to carry on negotiations."

Another restriction prohibits:

"The acceptance by an officer of contributions or gifts from persons not in the Military Establishment or in the employ of the Government in recognition of services rendered or from arms, or their representatives, with whom the officer has negotiated as an agent of the Government is prohibited. Officers will exercise their influence over members of their immediate families to insure that contributions or gifts are not received or accepted from such persons or firms."

Reduce Planes' Fire Hazard

The Navy has developed a non-inflammable hydraulic fluid which is expected to improve markedly the flying safety of both military and commercial aircraft, Rear Admiral L. C. Stevens, USN, Assistant Chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics for Research, Development and Engineering, has announced.

Although the new fluid was developed primarily to reduce fires resulting from hydraulic lines being ruptured by enemy action, the Navy expects it to have wide application in commercial flying because of its non-inflammable characteristics. The non-inflammable fluid is being specified for all new Navy airplanes.

Guided Missiles

Conferences which have been in progress in the War Department over the jurisdiction of the development of guided missiles have now resolved into meetings between representatives of the Ordnance Department and the Army Air Forces to work out between themselves the avoidance of duplication of effort.

These two agencies are to report back to the Director of Research and Developments Division, War Department General Staff, whatever understandings they are able to reach. If there are still points unresolved it will then be decided on General Staff level.

Col. Kilian Convicted

Col. James A. Kilian, former commander of the Army's detention barracks at Lichfield, England, was found guilty this week of charges of permitting guards to beat American soldier-prisoners with clubs and fists. He was fined $500 and given a reprimand.

AAF Safety Director

Lt. Col. Leonard F. Carter has been appointed Safety Director of Army Air Forces by Lt. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, Deputy Commander of the AAF.

Col. Carter will retain his present assignment as chief of the AAF Ground Safety program.

Aides for General Officers

A revision of AR 605-90, promulgated this week, authorizes general officers in command of troops to have aides as follows:

General officers

Adm. Halsey Decorated

After a six weeks' goodwill trip through South America, during which he received high decorations from eight nations, Fleet Admiral William F. Halsey, Jr., USN, has resumed his duties as adviser in the Navy Department. He fulfilled a new role as goodwill ambassador to the countries of Mexico, Cuba, Brazil, Uruguay, Chile, Peru, Ecuador, Colombia, Venezuela, Panama and Guatemala.

In a Navy R5D Skymaster, Fleet Admiral Halsey covered nearly 28,000 statute miles of Central and South American jungle, mountains and coastline, with a total of 144 hours in the air. Three- and four-day stops permitted him to receive ovations and make official calls on high-ranking members of governments. During the visits, he spoke Spanish, or adapted himself to French or German as the occasion demanded.

The wartime Commander, South Pacific, and Commander of the Third Fleet was given numerous honors in the form of parades, reviews, gifts and military decorations.

He received the Order of Naval Merit from Cuba, the Order of the Liberator from Venezuela, the Order of Ayacucho from Peru, and Chile's Grand Cross of the Legion of Merit. Ecuador awarded him his highest medal of Abdon Calderon, Columbia and Panama the Grand Crosses of Boyaca and Balboa, while Guatemala made him a Supreme Chief in the Order of the Quetzal. Members of Fleet Admiral Halsey's party and his pilot also received decorations from Chile and Peru. Fleet Admiral Halsey was accompanied by his former Operations Officer, Capt. Ralph E. Wilson, USN, and by Col. Alan Sharpey, USMC, formerly Commanding Officer of the Second Raider and Fourth Marine Regiments. Lt. Comdr. Frederick L. Gwynn, USNR, a torpedo plane pilot on the USS Lexington during the war, was the Admiral's aide and Flag Lieutenant.

SCAP Report on Japan

Summarizing the accomplishment of General Headquarters of the Supreme Commander for the Allied Powers since General of the Army Douglas MacArthur landed on Japanese soil on 29 Aug. 1945, SCAP this week issued the following statement:

First and above all else, the gigantic military machine of the Japanese Empire has been completely destroyed. Its fighting power had been temporarily nullified in the war, but a tremendous military organization, manned by millions, still remained at the time of the surrender. Its liquidation required the disarming, demobilization and disposition of approximately 4,000,000 organized and armed men in the home islands and 2,500,000 abroad. In addition, it was necessary to retrieve from overseas approximately 2,000,000 civilians and to repatriate to their homelands from Japan 1,000,000 Allied nationals.

Within the early weeks of the occupation, Japanese soldiers in the home islands were disbanded and returned to peaceful pursuits. Today, after a single year, the remnants of the overseas forces, scattered over thousands of miles, are streaming home and the work of repatriation is drawing to a close. Nine million have been processed in this time. For magnitude, thoroughness, speed and precision, this has constituted a demobilization and repatriation which has no precedent in history.

To insure further the destruction of Japan's war making power, thousands of military and civil aircraft and millions of weapons of various calibers, with vast quantities of ammunition, have been seized and disposed of; remnants of the Japanese navy have been taken over and are being destroyed or held for allied division; and every element of Japanese industry utilized for or capable of adjustment to the making of implements of war has been either destroyed or brought under our complete control. Thus from a material standpoint also, Japan's war making power and potential is ended.

Rapid and effective strides have been made in reshaping the Japanese government to conform to the principles inherent in a democratic state so that the people might readjust their lives to compose a truly democratic society. A new constitution has been evolved after many months of widespread public interest and unrestricted debate which, submitted to the people by the emperor and government of Japan, is now in the process of democratic legislative action toward adoption of amendment. Designed effectively to curb abuse of power by individual, class or government, it places sovereignty squarely in the hands of the people upon whom it bestows the full measure of human freedom. The masses of Japan are no longer regimented—no longer enslaved. The Japanese citizen no longer cringes in the presence of police or other public authority; his home has become his castle, free from unwarranted intrusion, observation or violence; he registers his opinion on public issues, uncontrolled except by his own conscience; he enjoys the right of assembly and petition; he worships as he chooses, in accordance with his individual religious faith; he enjoys the untrammeled right, individually or collectively with his fellow workers, to demand correction of unjust labor practices and conditions; and Japanese children, 18,000,000 of whom are presently enrolled, enjoy the right to liberal and free education in 40,000 public schools, now open and dedicated to the study of the arts and sciences and the historical truth and the development of enlightened thought.

Electoral discrimination has been removed, and the electoral base expanded by reducing the age limit from 25 years to 19 and enfranchising the women of Japan. The general election held on 10 April 1946 was a vivid demonstration of democracy on the march. A far greater number of those eligible to vote participated in this election than in any other election in Japanese history. The women of Japan took their newly-gained franchise as a serious obligation, sharply broke from their traditional retirement within the family circle, and elected 39 women members of the house of representatives, an accomplishment without precedent in political history.

Reform has been instituted in every element of the governmental structure and in every phase of government administrative procedure, to root out existing evils of entrenched bureaucracy which inevitably lead to totalitarian controls. Those who in the past preached the doctrine of militarism, expansionism and intense nationalism, and shaped the policies responsible for Japan's collapse, have been purged and barred from governmental service to afford the people a new leadership.

To dislodge the economic hold which certain vested interests have long had over Japanese economy, the corporate and personal resources of the 14 major families including the four big Zaibatsu groups, with approximately 1,200 firms linked in this system, are being liquidated. All principal officers and influential members of this industrial empire are being ousted. Thus the economic stranglehold upon the people in restriction of free enterprise, made possible by close alliance between Government and concentrated wealth, is being inexorably broken.

Striking at the roots of feudalism, an agrarian reform program, now under way, will enable about 2,000,000 tenant farmers of Japan to purchase the lands they now work. Shaped to break down the large land holdings into 2½-to-10-acre parcels, with their disposal provided for under conditions which will permit their ready acquisition, this program will correct one of the notorious evils which has long plagued individual economy and held in serfdom the under-privileged agricultural workers of Japan.

The task is by no means complete, but a decisive advance toward the achievement of our major objectives has been made.

Transfers to USN & USMC

Deadlines for Reserve and temporary officers to submit applications for permanent commissions have been established for the Navy at 1 September, for the Navy Nurse Corps at 1 October, and for the Marine Corps at 15 October.

In Alnav 468, the Navy established a deadline on the date of acceptance of appointments, as follows:

Any officer who fails to accept his appointment within a period of four months after the date of its publication will be considered to have declined his appointment and will no longer be eligible under the present program. Officers transferring to the Regular Navy under this program retain accrued leave and, if eligible, mustering-out pay benefits.

Naval Academy Prep School

The Navy last week issued its annual request for nominations of Navy and Marine Corps enlisted men for appointment to the Naval Academy Prep School, where they will be schooled for appointment to the U. S. Naval Academy.

The law authorizes appointment of 100 Midshipmen selected on the basis of competitive examinations between Navy and Marine Corps personnel. In addition to U. S. citizenship and physical standards, requirements include three years of high school with certain credits, age from 17-to-21, and nine months sea duty on commissioned ships or with fleet aircraft units.
